DR. FRANK P. GRAHAM, President
UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

TO THE CLASS OF 1935:

As the Yackety Yack goes to press, nature in Chapel Hill is preparing a beautiful setting for your graduation. The University sends you forth with affection and hope. Your class has borne the hardest blows of the long depression. When it seemed that you could not come, you came; when it seemed that you could not stay, you stayed. In your privations, life and attitudes, has come the will to hold on and to come back; the student honor revival, the improvement of student publications, the preparation for a wider participation in outdoor play, the revision of the curriculum, the increase in enrollment, a partial restoration of appropriations, the plans for strengthening the departments of Physics, Chemistry, German, History, Education, Philosophy and Music, and the creation of a School of Fine Arts. It is with a new hope in her spirit that alma mater receives you into the fellowship of the sons and daughters of Carolina. May these pages keep blessed your memories of Chapel Hill and young your spirit in the unending intellectual and spiritual work of rebuilding our broken world in the fairer likeness of your immortal brotherhood of youth.

FRANK P. GRAHAM

ROBERT B. HOUSE
DEAN OF ADMINISTRATION

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF '35:

I write these lines in salute to you when spring in special abandon is decking with superlative beauty the scene of this final quarter of your undergraduate years at Chapel Hill, when all things move us toward the sentiment of imaginative comradeship under the seal of Carolina. Hard reality in the shape of killing frosts may yet mar these early beginnings of spring, but it can never destroy the spiritual lift of this beauty in which we participate now. Harder realities born of troublous times will certainly assail the idealism which gathers into spiritual momentum the meaning of Carolina to you, but they can never destroy the spiritual lift of your own best moments in the high adventure of this University.

Insofar as students and faculty here have achieved unity and strength in the four years of your career, it has been by way of collaboration in searching the deep reaches of the spirit and in asserting and illustrating its ordering and formative power over the otherwise formless world of circumstance. Character, intelligence, imagination, achievement are great and dignified words, even in idle and abstract conversation. But in the traditions and daily working of this place at its best, they manifest themselves as principles of thought and action, inexhaustible in possibility, but beautifully immanent in the operations of the study, the classroom, the laboratory, the library, and the manifold expressions of our work and play together. Through them we have achieved a more truthful, a juster, a more beautiful way of living and working together. May their power, in part associated with this campus which you now leave but more permanently fixed in that image of this campus you carry with you, remain to you a resource of joy and comradeship forever.

THE SCHOOL OF LIBERAL ARTS

The College of Liberal Arts at the University of North Carolina occupies a position analogous to that of similar colleges in other American institutions—it is the original unit from which the other schools have sprung. The University of North Carolina is the oldest state university in America. When the doors of the University were opened in 1795, it was as a college of Liberal Arts that it began to function. For many years prior to our recent enthusiasm for specialization, Colleges of Liberal Arts were the only form of higher education, but the increased demand for specially trained men has caused a widening and a division of the College of Liberal Arts. Briefly stated, its purpose is to develop the mind of the student and insure his intelligent action in later life. A full utilization of the opportunities afforded by the college should make of the student a finer individual and a more thoughtful citizen.

THE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

The beginning of medical instruction at the University of North Carolina dates back to 1879, when Dr. Thomas W. Harris conducted here a medical class under the preceptorial method of instruction with the assistance of certain University departments. This school was discontinued in 1886. In 1890 the present School of Medicine was founded under the direction of Dr. Richard H. Whitehead, and in 1900 became incorporated into the University as a fully organized two-year medical school.

Since that date the School has had an uninterrupted record of service to the state, has continued to grow in influence throughout the state and nation, and has won for itself a record among medical educators for the excellence and thoroughness of its work.

In 1898 it was admitted to membership into the Association of American Medical Colleges, and is ranked in the class A group of American Medical Schools. Over 600 of the 2,300 practicing physicians in North Carolina today are alumni of the Institution, and they include and have included many of the most prominent and influential physicians in North Carolina.

THE SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

Courses in Pharmacy were given at the University from 1880 to 1897 under the administration of the School of Medicine. In 1897, the present School of Pharmacy was established, and Edward Vernon Howell was elected Professor of Pharmacy, and given charge of the school. In 1927 the school was admitted to membership in the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, an organization founded for the promotion of pharmaceutical education. In order to comply with the Association's requirements the course of study leading to the degree of Graduate in Pharmacy had been advanced in 1925 from two to three years, and in September, 1932, the three years course was replaced by a baccalaureate course. The present curriculum is so arranged that elective specialization begins in the junior year so as to allow graduates to enter any one of three different types of pharmaceutical service.

THE SCHOOL OF LAW

The Law School, which has developed into the School of Law of the University of North Carolina, was founded at Chapel Hill in 1843 as a private school by William H. Battle, then a judge of the Superior court. In 1845, Judge Battle was made Professor of Law in the University, and it was provided that the degree of Bachelor of Laws should be conferred on those completing the prescribed two-year course. For a long time the school maintained a certain independence from the University and students in law were not entirely subject to the discipline of the University. In 1899, the school was completely incorporated into the University, with the late James C. McRae as the first Dean of the Law School.

The School of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and has been listed as one of sixty-five schools classed as "approved law schools."

THE SCHOOL OF APPLIED SCIENCE

The School of Applied Science was founded in order to give special training to those students of the natural sciences who propose to make some branch of science their life's work. It was established in 1901, and first offered courses in mining. In 1904 it was expanded to include special curricula for students in Chemistry, Electricity, Civil Engineering, Mining and Metallurgy. Later curricula were offered for students who proposed to enter Dentistry and Medicine. When the School of Engineering was established in 1922, the curricula in Electrical and Civil Engineering were transferred to that school. At present, courses are offered for students proposing to follow the professions of Chemistry, Geology, Medicine, and Dentistry with bachelor's degree upon the completion of four or five years' curricula.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

Interest in research and advanced learning accompanied the origin and history of the University. General William R. Davie included graduate work in his project of the institution, and post-graduate work in certain courses was undertaken before the Civil War regulations governing it being incorporated in the catalogue of 1854. Upon the reopening of the University after the War, the plan for a graduate school was formulated—in the year 1876—at the same time as the foundation of Johns Hopkins. The School was given a Dean in 1904. It was reorganized in 1919-1920 under the leadership of Dr. Greenlaw and a special committee, and experienced an impressive development, as was indicated by the election of the University to membership in the Association of American Universities in 1922.

The Graduate School finds its province in the fostering of research, in training students to become investigators and teachers in special fields of learning, in the application of research methods to the problems of society and industry, and in supplying opportunity for further study by those who have already completed a college course. It is in these four fields that the Graduate School of the University of North Carolina does its work.

THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The School of Education is one of the undergraduate divisions of the University the purpose of which is the preparation of teachers. The School was organized in 1913. It grew out of the Department of Pedagogy, organized in 1895, which in turn grew out of the department of Normal Instruction which began in 1895. Through the Summer School and the Extension Division it conducts courses for teachers in service. It operates a Teachers' Placement Bureau, a Bureau of Educational Research, a Training School, and members of its staff edit the High School Journal, published by the University Press.

The program of studies for those preparing to become principals, superintendents, normal school and college teachers of Education is administered by the Graduate School through the School of Education.

THE SCHOOL OF COMMERCE

The School of Commerce at the University of North Carolina was established in 1919. Although courses in economics and in certain business subjects had been offered before the establishment of the School, the regular business curriculum was not established until that year, 1919. Industrial growth has been very rapid since the World War, and there has been a wide demand for trained leaders in the various fields of commercial activity. The University of North Carolina has realized the importance of this demand for business leaders, and has set up a curriculum that will provide its students with as thorough and as scientific a training as it is possible to give in this field. Courses are given in subjects dealing with the cultural and social side of life, but the teaching policy is directed mainly along lines dealing with the organization and administration of typical business enterprises.

THE SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING

When the University opened its doors in 1795 the first student to enter was Hinton James of Wilmington, who, after a brilliant career as a student, engaged in the practice of engineering. His breadth of interests here, ranging from astronomy to world commerce, was a fitting beginning for the broad cultural training which the institution has provided (since that time for leaders in the constructive development of the resources of the State and Nation). In 1852 The School for the Application of Science to the Arts was founded, which by 1857 registered 69 students. Then came Civil War and Reconstruction, but with the reopening of the University in 1875 a College of Engineering was established. In 1904 Engineering became a division of the new School of Applied Science, and in 1922 the present School of Engineering was organized. The School of Engineering offers standard four-year curricula leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Science in Chemical, Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering. The purpose of these curricula is to prepare the students to enter either the more technical phases of the engineering profession or the broader fields of the industrial world by giving him a thorough and cultural training in the fundamental principles of engineering.

THE SCHOOL OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

The School of Public Administration is an extension and an enlargement of the School of Public Welfare, which was established at the University of North Carolina in 1920, and whose main objective was the training of public welfare officials and social workers. In 1931, President Graham, upon the recommendation of Dr. Howard W. Odom, Director of the School of Public Welfare, urged the establishment of a new School of Public Administration in which the work in Public Welfare and Social Work would be continued as an important division, with still higher standards. The proposal received the hearty support of the Governor of the State and of the Legislature, and the new School of Public Administration was authorized by the Board of Trustees in June, 1932.

THE SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE

The School of Library Science of the University of North Carolina opened as a separate unit of the University in September, 1931. Courses in Library Science have been offered since 1904, but a grant from the Carnegie Corporation has made it possible for this division to function as a School of the University. It is a professional school offering a one-year course for the training of public school, college, and university librarians. The principal requirements for admission are a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university or senior standing in the university.

The School is fully accredited by the Board of Education for Librarianship of the American Library Association.

THE DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

The Music Department was organized in 1919 under the direction of Professor Paul J. Weaver. In 1921-22 courses in the various branches of Applied Music were added, and in 1929 the special degree A.B. in Music was instituted.

During the entire history of the Department the various musical organizations have gained distinction throughout the nation for the high quality of their work. With the completion of the Hill Music Hall in 1930, excellent physical equipment was made available to the Department, including an auditorium with a modern four manual organ, together with class-rooms and facilities for practice.

Since the beginning the faculty has gradually been increased until now the Department is prepared to give a course covering all the principal fields of musical instruction. The musical organizations now include a band, orchestra, Men's Glee Club, Women's Glee Club, and the Chapel Hill Choral Club.

THE DEPARTMENT OF DRAMA

The Department of Drama is designed to give a good background in the literature of the drama and the theatre, and training in the theatre arts and playwriting.

The fellowship of Playmakers evolved as a distinct group in the fall of 1918, when Dr. Edwin Greenlaw, then Head of the Department of English, realized that the State of North Carolina was a rich field for the making of a native folk drama. The Carolina Playmakers was founded at this time by Dr. Frederick H. Koch, who is an outstanding figure in the field of drama. Since 1918, the work in the theatre arts has advanced rapidly and stands today as one of the outstanding departments of the University.

THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

A University may be said to be divided, like all Gaul, into three parts: student, faculty, and alumni.

The living alumni of the University of North Carolina number now approximately twenty thousand. About three-fourths of this group live inside North Carolina. Approximately one-fourth of the entire number are graduates, others being former students who did not complete their courses of study.

The alumni are organized into permanent classes and into alumni clubs, these two groups forming the base stones for the organization of the General Alumni Association. While all former students are considered alumni of the University, membership into the General Alumni Association is confined to that group which supports through membership dues the organized program of the Association. Alumni, while they may hold membership in a class organization and in a local club group, are affiliated directly with the Alumni Association.

The activities of the Alumni Association may be grouped into five divisions: (1) The Alumni Review, (2) Central Alumni Office, (3) Local Alumni Clubs, (4) Permanent Classes, (5) Student Survey.

The Alumni Review is the official magazine of the Association and is published monthly during the year with the exception of the months of August and September. In the fall there are weekly football supplements that cover the varsity football games. The magazine is sent to the membership of the Association without cost and to subscribers as well.

The Association maintains in Chapel Hill the Central Alumni Office. This Office is in effect the Family Bible of Carolina men and women. In the office are kept records of the alumni—up-to-date address lists, class lists, biographical material about each alumnus, etc. The Central Office serves as a clearing house for the activities of the Association and supplies continuity in the alumni program.

There are approximately sixty local alumni clubs, organized in various counties of North Carolina and in centers of alumni population outside the State. Membership in these clubs is automatic with residence in the territory covered by the organization. Local alumni clubs elect officers, hold alumni meetings at various times during the year, and supply means of promoting University good will, understanding and interpretation.

All University classes have permanent officers who attend to various class matters—reunions, records, etc. The individual alumnus may select the class with which he prefers to affiliate, although generally his affiliation is with that class with which he would graduate in four years from the time he entered as a freshman.

Through the Student Survey the Central Alumni office engages in a program of encouraging the enrollment at Chapel Hill of prospective students of unusual promise. Cooperation with students now enrolled in the University, through the University Club, and with local alumni groups help make this program effective.

The governing body of the General Alumni Association is the membership which meets as the General Alumni Assembly each winter in Chapel Hill. Attending this meeting are representatives of the various classes and clubs as well as individual members of the Association who wish to attend. The executive group of the Association is the Board of Directors composed of alumni elected by classes, clubs, and membership at large.

Officers of the Alumni Association for 1935 are: Dr. Howard E. Rondthaler, Winston-Salem, President; J. Harper Erwin, Jr., Durham, First Vice-President; Robert C. deRossett, Raleigh, Second Vice-President; George Watts Hill, Durham, General Treasurer; and J. Marvon Saunders, Chapel Hill, Executive Secretary. Mr. Saunders is also editor of The Alumni Review.

Another organization working among the alumni is the Alumni Loyalty Fund Council, directed by a board which is appointed jointly by the President of the University and the President of the Alumni Association. Felix A. Grisette, Chapel Hill, is the Director and Executive Secretary of the Alumni Loyalty Fund. This organization is the fund-raising organization of the University, seeking through annual contributions from alumni, wills, and escheats, and larger donations, the supplementing of the University's income from student receipts and State appropriations. There are chairmen in the Council's organization for each class, and there are local committees in the various alumni geographical groups.

STUDENT COUNCIL

North Carolina, the oldest of state universities, was one of the first institutions at which student government was established. A survey made a few years ago by the General Education Board gave credit to the University of North Carolina for having a system which approached absolute student self-government more nearly than any other college in the nation. Students here have the priceless privilege of being able to live and develop their own lives during their college days in the knowledge that they are regarded as gentlemen and men of honor, and that they themselves have the privilege and the duty to deal with those of their number who fail to adhere to the standards of a Carolina man.

One distinctive feature of student government here is the fact that it is operated under no written constitution, no fixed rules or limits to bind it in its scope and jurisdiction. Each successive Student Council governs upon a basis of what it feels is right, and every case which comes before it is decided upon its individual merits.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council at the University of North Carolina hears all cases involving a breach of honor or a violation of the campus code, and acts as final authority in all matters of student government. The purpose of the Student Council is to keep interest alive in student government and to correct rather than to punish.

The Council is composed of ten members, including the President and Vice-President of the Student Body. There is one representative each from the Law School, the Medical School, and the School of Pharmacy. These members are elected by the members of their respective schools. There is one representative each, from the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore classes, elected by their class. This year, there were two hold-over members of the Council who were elected by the outgoing council. The President of the Student Body, who acts as chairman of the Council, and the Vice-President are elected by the vote of the undergraduate students.

PUBLICATIONS UNION BOARD

The Publications Union Board is a student-controlled organization dedicated to consolidating the business policies of the four student publications, the "Yackety-Yack," the "Daily Tar Heel," the "Carolina Magazine," and the "Finjan." The Board sees as far as possible that each publication is efficiently managed. It settles any misunderstanding that may occur between the editor and business manager of any publication and only under those conditions may offer editorial advice.

The P. U. Board is made up of three student members elected by the student body for a term of one school year, who represent the Senior Class, the Junior Class, and the student body at large. There are two faculty members appointed by the University President or the University Dean acting for the President, who serve for a period of two years each. The duties of the latter begin with the calendar year and are arranged so that their expirations occur in rotation. In past years it has been the custom that the faculty members be chosen, one from the department of English and one from the department of Economics.

There is a faculty advisor who attends every meeting. He may enter discussions and offer criticism or advice, but he does not have a vote in any decision.

STUDENT WELFARE BOARD

The Student Welfare Board was established in 1932 to coordinate and promote the work of all University agencies and organizations affecting the welfare of students. Its work is understood to embrace all University relationships with students other than formal instruction. These relationships all have educational significance and are recognized as an integral part of the educational program of the University.

FRANCIS F. BRADSHAW,
Chairman.

THE STUDENT AUDIT BOARD

The Student Audit Board supervises the auditing and bookkeeping for all student organizations which collect compulsory fees through the University. In addition, any student organization may use its services. At present it has 20 compulsory, and 13 voluntary members.

An office is maintained in Graham Memorial under the direction of an auditor, with two student assistants and two part-time bookkeepers.

ROBERT SHERRILL,
Auditor.

STUDENT ENTERTAINMENT SERIES

Because of the comparative isolation of Chapel Hill and the consequent lack of opportunity for the students to attend artistic and worthwhile productions, which appear in New York and other large centers, Dean Hibbard of the School of Liberal Arts suggested that a sum be raised annually to finance the importation of such attractions for the benefit of the students.

The present members, for the year 1934-1935 are: F. M. Simmons Patterson 1935, David Scott 1936, V. B. Rorison 1935, J. E. Snyder 1936, Professor Glen Hayden (Music), Professor Frederick H. Koch (Drama), Professor J. P. Harland (Chairman).

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The purpose of the Athletic Council is to promote athletics at the University along lines of good sportsmanship and high standards of personal character. All matters pertaining to athletics are under control of this Council.

It is composed of three faculty members appointed by the President of the University; three alumni members elected by the General Alumni Association; three student members; the President of the Student Body, the President of the General Athletic Association, and a delegate elected from the Monogram Club; the Director of Athletics, and the Assistant Director of Athletics.

UNIVERSITY DANCE COMMITTEE

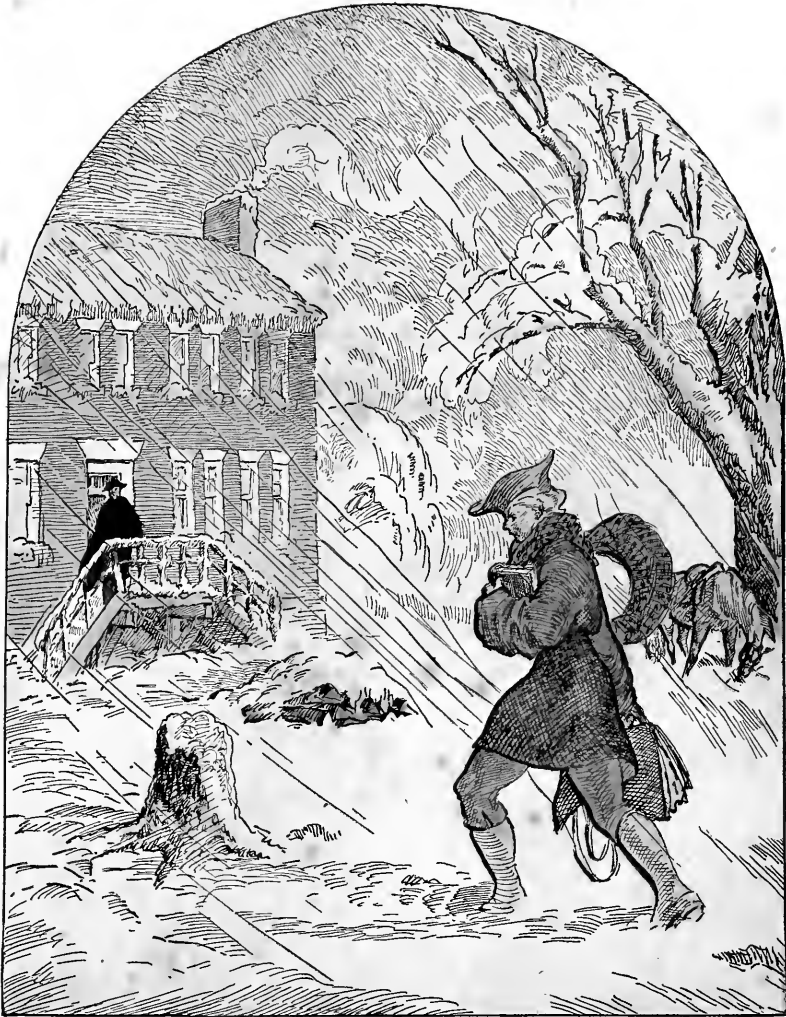

The University Dance Committee has had control of all University dances for the past three years. Prior to this time dances were controlled by the Executive Committee of the German Club. Due to a desire to have a wider campus representation in the control of the University dances, the University Dance Committee was formed. The Committee is composed of three representatives from the German Club, two from the Grail, one from each of the three upper classes, one from the Graduate School, one from the Interfraternity Council, one "hold-over" member, and one from the faculty.

The University Dance Committee desires to continue to uphold the fine conduct at the dances at the University of North Carolina.

HISTORY OF CLASS OF '35

This is not a political history, but because the story of the class of 1935 is so closely woven with the political aspirations of its class members, who, after all, are the ones who make class history, we must make it a brief story of politics, contemporary with other happenings.

In September, 1931, the freshmen of the class of '35, 890 strong, had their first taste of Carolina politics. At the annual freshman friendship council's organization banquet, Jack Pool defeated Charlie Shaffer for president of the council. A neat frame-up introduced Pool's campaigners to the Carolina art of vote-getting, and placed Pool on the way to becoming '35's perennial politician and president of his Senior class. Shaffer became a star in football, and stands close to George Barclay, Carolina's, and the class of '35's, All-American immortal.

The first year was lively. Forgetting a poor freshman football team, we remember that President Graham was inaugurated while talk began for a consolidated university. Dr. Dashiell won national attention by saying that movies are not only made for morons but by morons. Graham Memorial union was formerly opened, the communist Negro Langston Hughes lectured on poetry under "Y" auspices while Tony Butitta published Hughes' poem that "Christ is a nigger," a whispering campaign against Jack Dungan, tyrant of the Tar Heel, caused laughter, and Haywood Weeks dark-horsed the presidency of the student body from under the nose of Hamilton Hobgood.

The freshmen elected Bob Blount first president of the class in spite of maestro Pool's efforts to honor Ralph Gardner, son of the Govern-nor. Blount won with a slim majority of few votes.

Harry Williamson, later to become one of Carolina's greatest mile runners, was elected vice-president. Bob Bolton was secretary and Ed Williamson, treasurer.

In the spring elections for sophomore officers the class elected George "Stumpy" Franklin, who stayed in school as president long enough to lead the sophomore hop, which the industrious sophomore executive committee staged in November, 1932, instead of in the spring of the second year, as had been customary. John "Jake" Binder was elected vice-president, Frank McIntosh, secretary, and Bill McNair, treasurer. Gene Bagwell was student council representative.

When Franklin withdrew from school, Binder became president. When Binder dropped out, Student Body President Haywood Weeks broke a precedent and elevated J. D. Winslow, chairman of the executive committee, to the presidency.

In the elections of 1933, when Benny Carr and Don Shoemaker bitterly contested for the Tar Heel editorship and Mary Francis Parker, first woman student ever to run for a major office, lost to E. C. Daniel, the class of '35 elected as Junior president, Stuart "Snooks" Aitken, basketball star. Simmons Patterson became vice-president, J. D. Winslow, secretary, and Jack Pool, close to the purse strings, was made treasurer. Harold Bennett was elected student councilor. Aitken and Pool had negligible opposition from Leo Manley and Ezra Griffin.

The Junior year saw many important occurrences in which members of the class of '35 were guiding hands. The dormitory government system was revised and improved in efficiency with Albert Ellis as president. The University club, founded in the spring of '33, reached a bloom in '33-'34 with Agnew Bahnsen as president. The Foreign Policy League, fostered by members of the class of '35, came into active existence with Ralph Gardner at its head. He was succeeded by Bahnsen. The moribund Monogram club was revitalized, largely by juniors and seniors. The Y. M. C. A. renewed some of its old life with the intense activity of its deputations to North Carolina towns, usually under the direction of Jack Pool. Pool also did the '38 freshmen a good turn by organizing a group of senior student-advisors.

In sound financial condition, the Junior treasurer was amply able to import Hal Kemp to play for the annual Junior-Senior dances.

Pool became president of the Senior class in the elections of 1934, defeating Leo Manley. Norment Quarles, popular conference champion boxer, threatened to seek the presidency until Cupid sank deep his fangs and Quarles retired to marry and fight professionally.

Harold Bennett was elected vice-president. Albert Ellis, for long and faithful service as an astute politician, became secretary without opposition, and Kenneth Young was elected treasurer, Frank Kenan was made student council representative.

The same election saw Lonnie Dill defeat Carl Thompson for editor of the campus daily. Frank Abernethy, co-holder of the University record on the low hurdles, was elected vice-president of the student body.

Things have picked up since the class of '35 has been at Carolina. Having survived the depression and seen the University finally receive an increased appropriation from the legislature, the class leaves with business and prosperity on the upgrade. A parting indication is the fact that the number of co-eds has doubled since the men of '35 first passed by the Old Well.

THE SENIOR DREAM

For many of us, the dream of a life of ease and comfort is a distant one. Although we may wish to graduate and become millionaires, the reality of the situation is that we must first become millionaires. We must go through the hard work of the business world.

It is a dream that is never far from our minds.

From across the country, we are all here.

That is the dream of the senior.

Let us hope that this year will be a year of success for all of us.

Thank you, N. C. H.

FELLOW MEMBERS OF
THE SENIORS OF
 During our fifty year (191-
 21) history there has been a lot of changes in the school and the University's buildings. Since our first year was 1911, and our year may have, and since the college's anniversary is 1911, we should be proud that they should be commemorating the anniversary of the school's first year.
 We are proud that they were

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

September, 1932, saw the arrival of a group of freshmen destined to become one of the University's most active and progressive classes. With the aid of the first pre-college retreat and a week of acclimation, we quickly entered into the swing of things. During the fall, the following officers were elected to lead the class through its first year: Frank Rodgers, president; Van Webb, vice-president; Sam Clark, secretary, and Johnny Bost, treasurer. More capable officers could hardly have been found. Our athletic teams that year were unusually good, and have since produced many outstanding varsity athletes. The freshman football and boxing teams each lost but one contest, and the other teams had very creditable records.

Even in our first year many of the members of the class gained wide campus prominence in activities other than athletics. Phil Hammer, Nelson Lansdale, Billy Anderson and Claude Rankin are a few who had become well known in the publication circles and Van Webb had begun his career as one of the leading politicians of the campus.

With spring elections, the following men came into office: Russel Mickle, president; Morty Ellisberg, vice-president; Billy Vandell, secretary, and Jake Austin, treasurer. Mickle was unable to return to school our second year, and Morty Ellisberg took over the presidency, Barney Keeney becoming vice-president. Featuring in varsity athletics their second year were "Babe" Daniel, Jim McCachren, "Hump" Snyder, Tom Evins, Emmet Joyce, Harry Montgomery, and Bill Moore in football, Jim McCachren and "Mel" Nelson in basketball, "Morty" Ellisberg and Ernest Eutsler in boxing, Tom Evins and "Red" Drake in track, and Tommy Irvin and Ernie McKeithan in baseball. At the spring smoker, Carl Snavely, our new football coach, was the featured speaker.

Coming into office in the spring of 1934 were Ernest Eutsler, president; Charles Ivey, secretary, and Jake Austin, treasurer for the second time. During this present school year, our Junior athletes have continued to show their ability. "Hump" Snyder was awarded the Millis Football Trophy for the best blocker in the state. He and Harry Montgomery, after starring on Coach Snavely's championship team, were elected co-captains of the 1935 eleven. As this history is being written, plans are being made for an elaborate set of dances to be given with the Seniors in May.

The whole history may be summed up in the statement that members of the class have taken leading parts in practically every important event which has taken place on the campus since our arrival at the University.

ALL-AMERICAN 1934 YACKETY YACK

Under the editorship of Alex Andrews the YACKETY YACK for 1934 set a new standard of attainment for yearbook publication at the University. His edition won nationwide recognition as a book of excellence. Having been judged a book of such outstanding merit it was awarded an "All American Honor Rating" by the National Scholastic Press Association, an honor which was shared by only one other Annual published by a school of the same size. To the forerunner of this volume goes the distinction of having been the first North Carolina yearbook to gain that high recognition significant of preeminence in the whole field of collegiate publications, and so to ex-editor Andrews and the staff of the 1934 YACKETY YACK go the congratulations of the staff of this book.

PUBLICATIONS

R. B. DRANE, Editor

The 1935 Yackety Yack is intended to be an accurate pictorial history of the life at the University of North Carolina during the past year. The material presented herein is simple and modest, depicting as nearly as possible a true "Carolina" atmosphere. The "History of the University" theme was employed to add the sentimental value and traditional quality which it suggests.

Beside publishing a permanent record of the happenings of the past year, it has been the goal of the staff to give to the student body a brief illustrated history of the school. Such a theme was not chosen merely as a departure from the conventional type of design, but as a presentation of the important, though grossly neglected story, that each "Son of Carolina" should learn and hold in esteem.

If the historic theme is impressive, it is due to the kind help of two worthy alumni, whose loyalty to their Alma Mater has been a fine example of "Carolina Spirit" . . . Dr. Archibald Henderson and Dr. R. D. W. Connor. Through their interest and advice the presentation of this accurate, though unique theme was made possible. Also the unfailing work of Mr. Kenneth Whitsett of the Pictorial Engraving Co. and Mr. Frank Fleming and Mr. J. Hanes Lassiter of the Queen City Printing Co. prevented the publishing of this book from being the proverbial nightmare experienced by college annual editors.

With the expanding size of the University's roster there has developed among the students a loss of interest in the worthy and deserving traditions so dear to true and loyal University men. Therefore, it is hoped that this volume of the Yackety Yack will ever be treasured and will increase in value to its owners as a reminder of the "Carolina Spirit" that gripped them during their under-graduate days at Chapel Hill.

A. T. DILL, Editor

The Daily Tar Heel has tried throughout the past year to be a fairer, more interesting, and more constructive influence on campus life than it has ever been before. At the same time, however, it has attempted to avoid setting itself up as the high court and tribunal of everybody's business.

Those two statements are not at all irreconcilable. Between the extremes which they represent lies the newspaper that is helpful to the campus it serves, informative to its readers, and entertaining enough to hold their attention for the brief moment of an issue.

Due to limitations which may one day be surmounted if the students consent to the expansion of the paper, the Daily Tar Heel is at present necessarily static as regards its "format" or make-up. Little change that would be helpful, in the opinion of the present editor, could be made in the news columns of the paper. So with the exception of the change in acquiring a news service, the paper has concentrated in the past year on making its editorial opinions an optional stimulus to the betterment of campus environment. It has attempted at all times to steer clear of that supercilious attitude of giving no other agency or person about whom its comment centers credit for intelligence and sincerity. Nor has it relegated its opinions to the level of propaganda in behalf of making the will of its one set of convictions prevail. That is why whatever stimulus that the Daily Tar Heel can afford this campus is optional; otherwise, it becomes mere dogma. And whether it is dogma of fanaticism or of liberalism does not matter; the fair newspaper will purge itself of either to the best of its ability.

Specifically, the Daily Tar Heel has tried through its news service to interest the students in the reading of newspapers. Never, however, has there been any sacrifice of local news in this connection. Briefs of national and state importance have been available for the first time to those students who do not subscribe to a daily newspaper. And to the whole campus there has been afforded an opportunity to become interested in the panorama of economic issues, social questions, and political movements that most surely becomes apparent with the realization of the constant changes recorded in the daily newspaper. That is as much a part of what the University itself offers as any branch of learning that it teaches.

To make real progress the Daily Tar Heel must always have the consciousness that it is becoming a better paper. It profits from the mistakes of past administration as future ones will profit from its mistakes. Its concern should always be, as it has in the past year, toward the life of the campus. Whether it has accomplished what it has attempted, with the manifold help of the 1934-35 staff members, we leave to the students, its stock-holders and readers, who, after all, are the judges of any newspaper.

The Carolina Finjan opened the year as a new magazine entirely different from the former Carolina Buccanercr. It opened the year with a clean slate, a clean policy, and a clean censor board.

In an effort to find what the campus would like in the way of clean humor an attempt at parody was made by copying the magazine, Esquire. This was greeted by part of the campus with applause, by the remainder, an overwhelming majority, with hoots of disdain. This, while partly due to the fact that Esquire is not quite as widely read by the students as was supposed, can also be attributed to the students' opposition to anything not closely akin to the Buccanercr.

It is felt by those who are backing the Finjan to the nth degree that probably a new generation of college students who know nothing or little about the old Buccanercr will grow to appreciate the Finjan. Being something new, an about face from what has been, people have shied away from it. It is felt, too, that more people are coming to appreciate the efforts being made to give a better magazine and this is seen through the increase in contributors.

The Finjan can not be judged by one issue or one year's efforts, it will and must stand the trial of several years. What has been done on our campus about cleaning up the humor magazine is the same that has been done, is being done, on campuses all over the country.

All over the country it is seen from letters and from the comics themselves, that they are cleaning up. No attempt is made to copy the New Yorker or any other magazine in particular. The new generation of college students wants a smarter more sophisticated magazine. Also, all other magazines are shying away from filth, there is no place for it in editorial circles; however, the new generation feels that it can imply a lot by clean wit and humor. More and more confidence is being felt by those in charge that the Finjan is following the trend, and aiding in setting it, that is so obviously apparent in all comic magazines.

The editor wishes to thank all of those who have helped him during the year to make what may or may not be a success of the first year of the Finjan. It is mainly through their efforts in handing in copy, some good, some bad, that any issues have been printed this year. That many former Buccanercr staff members remained with the Finjan and reformed to write copy containing more humor, an evidence of real work and not just plain inspiration, means quite a lot in the effort to further humor unadulterated with filth.

In conclusion the editor wants to state that he believes firmly in the future of the Finjan and hopes that the campus will adopt the attitude toward college humor publications prevalent on other campuses throughout the country.

The "literary" publication of the University of North Carolina was unofficially abolished in September, 1934. In its place there has developed a magazine topical and journalistic in character. It has been the desire of the present administration to experiment by shifting the emphasis in material from poetry and fiction to articles and essays.

Contrary to popular opinion there has been no rigid editorial opposition to fiction. Rather, the administration has sincerely attempted to publish as many mature and meaningful stories as have been available. There has, however, been editorial antipathy toward vague sketches and aimless experimental narration.

In every field of writing the Magazine has sought to present the reader with a finished product which could by the nature of its material have appeared only in the Carolina Magazine. To that end an effort has been made to emphasize articles of a controversial nature dealing with campus, state, and a limited number of national problems.

The Carolina Magazine has consistently striven to maintain a liberal editorial policy. It has championed minority groups when it felt them in need of an audience. It has constantly sought to bring into print the much-vaunted, seldom-examined "spirit of Chapel Hill." It has attempted to demonstrate that college writers can discuss intelligently issues which affect students in the present and future.

In its first year as an independent publication, since 1930 The Carolina Magazine has taken the first steps toward justifying its freedom from The Daily Tar Heel. Complete independence, however, cannot be attained on the basis of a single year's product. Much remains for future editors. As it has been shaped this year, the publication stands as a journal which exists primarily for its readers, rather than its writers. Undoubtedly there has been an overemphasis on the reading public. To strike the proper balance is the burden of the future.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE of ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the national organization representing the electrical engineering profession, was founded in 1884. Its objects are the advancement of theory and practice of electrical engineering, the maintenance of high professional standards among its members, and the development of the individual engineer. An outgrowth of this latter objective was the organization of the Student Branches of the A. I. E. E. in 1902. Almost every engineering school in the country today has its student branch of the A. I. E. E. Enrollment in the branch gives the student an opportunity to get acquainted with the profession and with its personnel. It helps the student to decide in which of the many fields of electrical engineering he may specialize.

The University of North Carolina

Branch was inaugurated in 1902, the year that the first student branches were organized. All electrical engineering students are members of the branch and may become student members of the national organization upon payment of dues to the national secretary. Student members of the branch groups may transfer to the grade of associate members of the national organization upon graduation.

The University Branch conducts nine meetings each year, at which time papers by students, practicing engineers, and faculty members, together with motion pictures of electrical engineering interests are presented. These meetings are conducted by the students who are encouraged to take part in them. Through the Student Branch the engineering student is given the opportunity of meeting the leaders in the profession, of developing the art of public speaking, and of keeping abreast of advancement in the various fields of Electrical Engineering.

AMERICAN SOCIETY of CIVIL ENGINEERS

The William Cain chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers was founded in 1920. It is one of the two student chapters in the country that is named after a professor of the school. The local chapter was named after the late William Cain, former professor of mathematics and engineering. The purpose of the society is to bring before the members examples of the latest and most important developments in the Civil Engineering field. This is accomplished by securing prominent practicing engineers to lecture about some particular project upon which they have worked. Illustrated lectures of some of the modern and largest feats of the Civil Engineering profession are secured from the national society and are delivered by various student members. Meetings are held twice a month.

Another method which the society uses to get the student in contact with the profession is by arranging inspection trips for the Seniors during the spring quarter. Trips are made to some of the nearby Civil Engineering projects. Last year the trip included the dry docks at Norfolk, Va., several large bridges, and to an automobile assembly plant. A faculty member always accompanies the class so that he can point out some of the more important features.

Election of the officers for the following year are always elected at the last meeting for the spring quarter. All civil engineering students automatically become members at the beginning of their sophomore year.

THE DIALECTIC SENATE

The Dialectic Senate was organized in 1795—the year the University was founded—and at that time was known as the Dialectic Literary Society. From its humble beginnings the Society has assumed the position, from time to time, of endower of the University Library, strongest political unit of the student body, foremost creator of campus opinion and—throughout the years—trainer of outstanding orators, statesmen, and citizens.

During the long years of its existence, the "Di" halls have echoed to the voices of students who were alive to the world around them. The list of topics studied, written, and debated in the Dialectic Senate would form an interesting subject for research due to its peculiar correlation with the history of the United States and of North Carolina.

In recent years the Senate has tended more and more toward a position of enlightened liberalism. In pursuing this objective, there has been instituted this year in "Di" the person of temporary floor leader, who, with his assistants, makes a special effort to gather cogent and timely points relating to the subject for discussion and debate at the next session of the Senate.

In its free discussion and debate the Dialectic Senate typifies the ideals of an intelligent and socially conscious democracy.

THE PHILANTHROPIC ASSEMBLY

The history of the Philanthropic Assembly goes back to the opening of the University in 1795. This organization was created parallel to the beginning of the University and its existence has been inseparably linked with the life of the University. It sprang from the Dialectic Senate less than one month after the Dialectic Senate, its parent society, was organized. During the course of the next hundred years the Phi served with the Di in being the foremost organizations in the expression of student opinion. For a long time membership in one of the societies was compulsory. Later this was abolished and the Phi experienced a decline in membership. But in spite of this, the Phi and the Di have served a noble purpose in developing practice in debate, oratory, and parliamentary procedure.

In 1919, the Phi was reorganized on the plan of the General Assembly of the state and changed its name accordingly. It is a highly organized body and it adheres closely to its rules of procedure. Although compulsory membership is no longer in practice, the society still attracts a large number of students interested in extra-curricular activity. This fact is convincingly shown by the present membership which is approximately one hundred.

The Phi offers students a great opportunity to express themselves on questions of interest ranging from campus to national affairs. The rapid development of other activities and organizations on the campus has made interest in the society decrease from its former position. But the societies still promote such important forensic activities as the Mary D. Wright and Bingham debates between representatives of the two societies. During the past few years the Freshman debate has been sponsored between Freshmen representatives of the two societies. In spite of the many obstacles the Phi has faced it still remains an organization where any student can profit by proper application of his talent in developing himself into a well-rounded and cultured citizen.

DEBATING ACTIVITIES AT CAROLINA

With Gerrard Hall packed to the roof, Oxford University of England matched wits last fall with the Carolina debaters in the feature debate of the year. Other highlights of the year included two radio debates over station WOL in Washington, D. C., on the northern debating trip with George Washington University and the University of Maryland during the spring holidays. And the women debaters of Bucknell, North Carolina College for Women, and the University of Georgia added clever repartee against Carolina men in three debates this spring.

Two long trips were rewarded to outstanding debaters of the squad during the spring holidays for work throughout the year. Donald Seawell and Winthrop Durfee traveled north to Washington, D. C., West Virginia, and New York; Francis Fairley and Norman Kellar journeyed south to Atlanta and New Orleans.

Debates, entertainment of visiting teams, trips, debate squad meetings, and all activities of debating are under the supervision of the Debate Council. The faculty is represented by Professors McKie, Woodhouse, and Olsen. The student body elects two members annually, Phillips Russell and Winthrop Durfee being the present student representatives. Robert Smithwick and James Kirkpatrick are the members for the Philanthropic Assembly and the Dialectic Senate respectively. Entertaining of visiting debaters has been delegated to Don Seawell. Winthrop Durfee has acted as publicity manager for debating.

The Debate Squad, composed of any students who are interested, meets once a week in Graham Memorial to analyze and discuss questions. Visiting faculty members often give short lectures at the meetings, discussing the pros and cons of the debate queries. In the try-outs for the various debates, any student in the University may compete. This year finds a new high in the number of participants in debates as well as attendance at the debate squad meetings.

Non-decision debates make a distinctive feature of Carolina debating. The old system of judges' decisions, an inducement to artificiality, insincerity, and concentration on two or three "champions," who debate time after time on the same subject, is not tolerated. Debating is not considered an altercation, an elocutionary exhibition, a laboratory exercise in logic, or an intercollegiate sport. Specifically, fair, sincere, realistic discussion, addressed to an audience rather than a set of judges is encouraged. And with non-decision debates, the attendance has increased, averaging for the current year about 65 for each debate.

RUSSELL

The purpose of debating at the University of North Carolina is to give the students training in public speaking with a view to their participation in public affairs, to help them to better understanding of important and persistent problems, and to offer the public an opportunity of hearing such problems discussed.

THE THIRD QUADRENNIAL INSTITUTE ON HUMAN RELATIONS

The first Institute on Human Relations took place at the University in 1927, and was so successful that it was decided to hold it every four years. Accordingly, the second Quadrennial Institute occurred the week of May 3-9, 1931, and brought to the campus 17 visiting speakers and leaders, held 19 public mass meetings, 96 classroom seminars, and registered a total attendance for the week of approximately 25,000.

The purpose of the Institute, broadly stated, is to stimulate thought and discussion on contemporary social problems in the fields of International Relations and Government, Business and Industry, and Interracial and Class Relations.

The Third Quadrennial Institute on Human Relations was held during the week of March 31 thru April 6, 1935. The Institute opened with an address Sunday night by Dean Robert R. Wicks of Princeton University, "The College Student in a Sacred World." During the week speeches were made by Dr. Emil Lederer of the New School for Social Research, Dr. John Hope, President of Atlanta University, Mr. Donald Comer, Southern textile manufacturer, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Dean Shailer Mathews of Chicago University, Dr. Sao-Ke Alfred Sze, Chinese Minister to the U. S., and Dr. George Soule, Editor of the New Republic, who delivered the Weil Lectures as part of the Institute program. At the time this was being written tentative acceptances had also been received from Norman Thomas, Samuel Seabury, and J. Edgar Hoover, of the Department of Justice. Invitations to speak had been sent also to Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, Mr. Jerome Frank, Dr. Stephen P. Dugan and Dr. Glenn Frank, but had not as yet been heard from.

The Institute is sponsored jointly by the Y. M. C. A., the Senior Class, the Order of the Grail, The University Administration, the Departments of History and Government, Economics and Commerce, Sociology and Public Welfare, and the Weil Lecture Committee.

Simmons Patterson was appointed chairman of the 1935 Institute by the Y. M. C. A. cabinet, but heavy work forced him to resign. Charles A. Poe was then appointed chairman. The Committee was selected by the Chairman and the Cabinet.

MEMBERS OF THE 1935 INSTITUTE COMMITTEE

Students: Eben Alexander, Agnew Bahnsen, Harold Bennett, Lonnie Dill, Albert Ellis, Phil Hammer, Billy Harrison, Don McKee, Paul Mickey, Charles Poe, Chairman, Jack Pool, Joe Sugarman, Herb Taylor, J. D. Winslow.

Faculty: Dean Francis F. Bradshaw, Dean D. D. Carroll, H. F. Comer, Executive Secretary, Prof. K. C. Frazier, Dr. Frank P. Graham, Dean R. B. House, Prof. G. B. Johnson, Dr. E. L. Mackie, Prof. H. D. Meyer, Dr. H. W. Odum, Mr. J. Maryon Saunders, Dean M. T. Van Hecke, Prof. E. J. Woodhouse.

Y. M. C. A.

The University Young Men's Christian Association, third oldest student Y. M. C. A. in the country, is composed of students united in an effort to achieve the highest standards of life and conduct. The "Y" is organized on the basis of the class cabinet system, with a junior-senior, sophomore, and freshman cabinet, which at their regular weekly sessions provide opportunities for discussion, friendship, leadership, and service.

Concentrating on making a religious contribution to the campus, the Y. M. C. A. this year sponsored at the University a galaxy of speakers and discussion leaders, including Senator Gerald P. Nye and Bishop Francis J. McConnell. Through the cooperation of the local churches, a Religious Workers Council was set up in the fall to stimulate student activity in the religious organizations of the village; and throughout the year, under the auspices of the "Y," devotional services were sponsored in the University assembly.

The climax of the year's work in this religious field was the third Quadrennial Institute of Human Relations which was held March 31 to April 6. During this period speakers of national prominence presented platform addresses, taught classes, and led discussions on the topics of human relations in politics, race, government, and economics.

In the sphere of campus service perhaps the organization's greatest contribution was the work of the self-help bureau, which not only acted as an agency to place students in profitable employment, but also administered the government FERA appropriations. Continued with the same quiet regularity was the work of the Y. M. C. A. secretaries in counseling students and providing information and guidance. Other noteworthy activities during the year in the realm of campus service included the joint sponsorship of the first Student-Faculty Day, the publication of the Carolina Freshman Handbook and the directory, infirmary visitation, and the presentation of the Pre-College Freshman Retreat to acquaint new students with University life.

But the organization's work extended to communities other than the campus. Through gate receipts from the annual Negro football classic, sponsored during Thanksgiving by the "Y" funds were raised to help finance the salary of a nurse to work among the Negroes of Chapel Hill. Members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinets also aided the boys' clubs of the village, acting as advisers to the Hi-Y Clubs and the Boy Scout troops. Numerous deputa- tion teams were sent out to North Carolina towns and cities to present week-end programs in schools, hos- pitals, churches, and boys' organi- zations; and Carolina delegates rep- resented the University at the State Y. M. C. A. conventions and joint conferences of the three "Y" units of the Consolidated University.

GLEE CLUB

The purpose of the Glee Club is to afford an opportunity for each member to improve his ability to sing music of the highest type and to inspire in him a real appreciation of the best in choral music. Membership is purely voluntary on the student's part, attendance not being compulsory, and no credit being given toward graduation from the University. For the last few years it has been run on a self-supporting basis. The programs given in concert are patterned after those of the Harvard Club. Having taken pride in its library from the beginning, the club now has a selection of about 4,000 copies, covering an exceedingly wide variety of music, enabling the club to give diversified programs, ranging all the way from Bach chorales to the more popular negro spirituals. A tour is usually made each quarter in addition to several single trips. Among those made in the past few years are tours to Europe, New York, Washington, Kansas City, Richmond, Cincinnati, Atlanta, etc. The University Glee Club has assumed leadership in its field in the South, having won at various times the Southern Intercollegiate Glee Club Association contest, the Virginia-Carolina Men's Glee Club contest, and others. Through a system of try-outs, only the best from the standpoint of voice and knowledge of the particular songs to be sung are selected for a trip, out of almost a hundred enrolled. This year a quartet has been organized which specializes in songs that are in a lighter and more popular vein than those of the club, and it will probably be installed as a permanent feature.

ORGANIZATIONS

BEING THAT PORTION OF THE BOOK DEVOTED ENTIRELY TO THE PRESENTATION OF THE SEVERAL HONORARY AND PRO-FESSIONAL GROUPS OF THE CAMPUS

PURPOSES OF THE UNIVERSITY CLUB

The purposes of this organization shall be:

(a) To promote and retain a high enthusiasm and a high spirit of sportsmanship in all University events and contests;

(b) To entertain all visiting inter-collegiate and high school and preparatory school teams;

(c) To promote activities and sponsor programs which will interest prospective students in the University;

(d) To keep actively interested in campus affairs and present itself for service wherever such service will be in the interest of the student body or the University.

(e) To cooperate with all campus organizations for the promotion of the welfare of the University;

(f) To improve inter-school relations;

(g) To continue and improve active mutual relations with the alumni;

(h) To promote freshmen orientations;

(i) To foster state-wide interest in the University and its activities.

The second year in the life of the University Club began its cycle in April of last year with the inception of almost forty rising juniors. Each of the members in this junior organization represents a fraternity or a dormitory with the exception of three non-fraternity men who are representatives at large. With such a representative group the club can keep in close contact with every phase of the campus life and is able to keep the campus posted on the activities of the club.

Since its foundation the club has consistently broadened its field of activity in its effort to be of real value to the University.

The work of the University Club is four-fold. During the fall quarter its efforts are directed mainly in keeping high the "Carolina Spirit" by means of cheer-rallies and torch-light parades before football games by presenting entertainment during the half of the games, and by presenting the student body each fall with the school mascot, Rameses.

The Club has assumed the position of clearing house for odd jobs.

In this capacity it co-operates with all worthwhile student movements and especially with the Athletic Association and the General Alumni Office.

Off the campus this organization has tried to help reawaken and keep alive alumni interest as well as to create the interest of the higher type of prospective students for the University of North Carolina. These objectives have given rise to a series of radio programs which would be of interest to both of these groups, and which have covered the entire state and a goodly portion of the South. Along with these programs the University Club has cooperated with the University alumni groups in holding informal meetings in several North Carolina cities.

The fourth phase of the Club's work is concerned with relations with other schools. Visiting athletic teams are met and entertained during their stay on the University campus and better inter-school relations are fostered in every other possible way.

The Monogram Club is composed of athletes and team managers who have been awarded the University monogram. Membership in the Club is not automatic but optional upon the receipt of a monogram. The Club as a whole meets three times each year. However, its chief working organ, the Executive Committee, holds weekly meetings throughout the year to direct the Club's activity. Its main functions are to encourage athletic merit and to serve in an advisory capacity to the Athletic Council. This year an active Executive Committee composed of representatives from each of the athletic teams was granted the power to examine the coaches' recommendations for awards before they are submitted to the Athletic Council. It is through this channel that merit outside of athletic ability is brought to bear upon the Council's decision and a more rigorous standard of requirements is maintained.

COACH CARL SNAVELY

The football team of the University of North Carolina experienced a poor season in 1933. In 1934 that same team, with very few changes, was one of the most powerful in the South, and one of the top-notchers of the nation. The answer to this surprising reversal of form is found in the name and work of Carl Snavely, the "miracle man" of North Carolina football. When Snavely signed as head coach for Carolina, the general cry in the state was, "he is more to be pitied than censured," because football followers believed that no coach could do much with the material on hand at Carolina. However, the undaunted Snavely called his charges out for winter practice, and drilled them in the fundamentals of the game. A slight improvement was noticed in the morale and play of the squad, but still the coming season looked unpromising. When the season started and the first game was at hand, Carolina was the underdog and Wake Forest, one of the weakest teams on the schedule, the favorite. The final score of that game was 21-0, Carolina. People began to sit up and take notice. The next week, Carolina showed great power in losing to Tennessee, and when this defeat was followed with a great 14-0 victory over Georgia, Tar Heel football fans knew they had a great team. When the season was over and only one game had been lost, Carl Snavely was the man of the hour. Coach Snavely teaches his men to play clean, hard football, but above all, he teaches them to play the game scientifically. In one season he had his team being called one of the most deceptive teams in the South. Fans are looking for Coach Snavely to put out another fine team next fall, and the Yackety-Yack believes that he will do it.

CAPT. GEORGE BARCLAY

George Barclay holds the distinction of being the first all-America football player from the ranks of University of North Carolina teams. His selection was one of the biggest boosts Tar Heel football has ever received because it placed the team of this University in the national eye. Those who watched Barclay perform during the 1933 and 1934 football seasons were not surprised in the least when all the major selectors of all-America team chose him for a first-string position. His sterling play during these campaigns marked him for this honor. In 1933, playing with a mediocre team, Barclay was the outstanding man on the field in almost every game, and when Carolina had a great team in 1934, Barclay still stood higher than his great teammates and opponents. Every year a team is selected of players east of the Mississippi which travels to San Francisco to meet the best that the west has to offer. For the New Year's game of 1935, Captain Barclay was chosen for the eastern team, and proved to be one of the outstanding stars of the struggle, although his team was defeated. George Barclay left no doubt as to the calibre of his playing. Carolina will be a long time in finding an athlete who comes closer to its high standards of competition and sportsmanship. The Yackety-Yack wishes that Captain George Barclay have as much success in his future undertakings as he had in his football career at Carolina.

COACH AND CAPTAIN

Under the recovery administration of Head Coach Carl Snavely, former Bucknell and Kiski mentor, the University of North Carolina's football program received a "new deal" for the 1934 season. The final record showed seven victories, one loss, and one tie.

The Tar Heel eleven, instead of finishing fourth in the Big Five and far down in the Southern Conference standings—as was predicted by sports writers and other would-be prognosticators—ended as undisputed champion in State competition and runner-up in the Southern Conference, though it was conceded the strongest member.

The abrupt divergence from the trail which Carolina had followed for the past few years was attributed to the change in attitude of the squad, brought about by the forceful energy and enthusiasm of its new coach and the inspiring leadership of its All-America Captain, George Barclay. This great linesman was chosen All-State, All-Conference, All-Southern, and All-Atlantic in addition to his official national selection.

The season was the best since 1929; and was even said by many to be the greatest ever at Chapel Hill. Carolina thusly took its rightful place in "big time" football—rising in national ranking from 101 to a position within the first fifteen.

At the conclusion of the season, the squad elected Herman Snyder and Harry Montgomery as co-captains for the 1935 season; and Snyder was awarded the Millis Blocking Trophy for the best blocker in the State.

CAROLINA 21, WAKE FOREST 0

The 1934 curtain raiser saw Coach Snavely make a most auspicious debut as his charges walloped a highly touted Wake Forest eleven 21-0 in Kenan Stadium. Carolina scored in all periods but the third, the opening tally coming shortly after Tatum's kick-off. From its own 45 the Blue and White went straight down the field with Dashiell finally skirting right end for 13 yards and a touchdown.

Hutchins accounted for the next six-pointer on the very last play of the first half, when he sneaked 17 yards over tackle. Captain Barclay started things going for the final touchdown as he intercepted an enemy aerial midway through the last period on the Deacon 33. The Tar Heels advanced the oval until Shaffer culminated the drive by going off tackle for the score. Daniel converted twice and Tatum once for extra points. Carolina garnered fourteen first downs to the visitors' three.

TENNESSEE 19, CAROLINA 7

The only setback of the year came at the hands of Tennessee's powerful team by a 19-7 margin. After holding a 7-6 lead at half time, Major Neyland's strong reserve power forced the fighting Tar Heels into submission.

The opening play produced one of the biggest thrills of the season on the Kenan gridiron. Tatum kicked to the 10 where Krouse received and raced straight down the field through the entire Carolina line-up for a touchdown. Barclay blocked the conversion attempt.

However, in a very few minutes the tide changed, and Carolina on repeated thrusts by Dashiell, Shaffer, and Hutchins, drove to a first down on Tennessee's 12. From here Dashiell passed to W. Moore who drove over for the score. Daniel's placement was good, and Carolina was out in front 7-6.

The visitors regained the lead in the third period when Vaughan, behind perfect interference, went off tackle for a touchdown from the 30. Barclay again blocked the extra point try. The final tally came after an aerial interception and Dicken's 20-yard race around end. Dorsey made good the free try.

CAROLINA 14, GEORGIA 0

The third game of the season found Carolina scoring one of the nation's greatest upsets as it halted the famous Georgia crackers 14-0 at Athens, and by so doing avenged a crushing 30-0 defeat suffered in 1933. Shaffer and Barclay led "the march through Georgia," most ably assisted by Snyder, the brilliant blocking back, Jackson, Tatum, Kahn, and Daniel.

Shaffer's first score came in the second quarter after he had snagged a pass from Jackson on the Georgia 10 and raced the remaining distance over the goal. The second followed Hutchins' recovery of a fumble deep in the cracker territory, and a series of line smashes that carried to the 1. A reverse from Hutchins sent Shaffer across again. Daniel kept up his fine work by making good on both placements.

CAROLINA 6, KENTUCKY 0

Coach Snavely's horde of gridsters returned to Kenan Stadium on October 21 to defeat Kentucky 6-0 before 13,000 Homecoming Day fans. The many returning alumni had hoped to see an exhibition of the finesse that had so humbled Georgia the week previous, but the team experienced an almost complete reversal of form and were just able to keep the Wildcats from clawing deep enough for a score.

However, the crowd was treated to a few flurries of Tar Heel brilliance, one of which saw the sophomore pass combination, Dashiell to Buck, function for a touchdown early in the opening quarter. After receiving a 25-yard heave, Buck sprinted the remaining 23 yards for the score. Led by Johnson, one of the South's best, Kentucky threatened often and gained ten first downs to Carolina's five.

CAROLINA 26, GEORGIA TECH 0

Following the loss of Shaffer and its poor showing of the week previous, Carolina's hopes for a second successful invasion of Georgia did not appear any too bright. However, with a revamped backfield the Chapel Hill contingent ran roughshod to bury the Golden Tornado of Tech under a 26-0 count.

This time it was Harry Montgomery who rose to the occasion, as he smashed over for two touchdowns and displayed a wonderful piece of field generalship. Jackson's 52-yard run and Hutchins' line plunge accounted for the other touchdowns, and Daniel's educated toe added two more extra pointers to his already lengthy list. Carolina pushed over a pair of tallies in each of the first and third periods.

CAROLINA 12, DAVIDSON 2

Carolina next obliged 8,000 Homecoming Day spectators at Davidson College by caging the Wildcats 12-2 in a game played in a steady downpour of rain. The home team gave the fans quite a thrill early in the second period when it went into a short-lived 2-0 lead as "Big Six" Johnston tackled Jackson behind the U. N. C. goal.

Soon afterwards the Tar Heels came back and Hutchins smashed his way over tackle for a tally from the 6. Jackson paved the way for the second touchdown by intercepting a Davidson pass on his own 26, and then added the finishing touches by scoring on a reverse around end from the 4. The soggy ground made placements impossible.

CAROLINA 7, DUKE 0

Playing before a gay crowd of over 30,000 people that jammed every available bit of space in Kenan Stadium, George Barclay and his powerful band of Tar Heels returned on the afternoon of November 17 to score a 7-0 triumph over the mighty Blue Devils of Duke. The crowd, which was the biggest ever at a gridiron struggle in North Carolina, saw the first Carolina triumph over Duke since 1929 and a definite settlement of the Big Five championship.

After stopping everything that Wallace Wade's bag of tricks possessed, Carolina finally gained success at the start of the final quarter. With but a few seconds of play remaining in the third, Carolina's ball on its own 45, Jackson shot a 20-yard pass to Buck, who twisted away from tackler after tackler until he was finally downed on the Duke 9. Hutchins made no gain on a line smash as the period ended.

Jackson lost 3 yards on a reverse, but on the next play dropped back and sent a beautiful aerial to Buck, who amid thunderous applause went over for the score. Daniel's kick for the extra point was straight between the uprights to top-off a glorious 7-0 victory; the first that any member of the squad had ever experienced over Duke, and which returned the coveted Friendship Trophy to Chapel Hill.

CAROLINA 25, VIRGINIA 6

Coach Snavely's first season came to a close when his great team handed the University of Virginia a 25-6 lacing in the annual Turkey Day classic at Charlottesville. The visitors rolled up three touchdowns in the opening period and both teams scored once in the third.

Captain Barclay presented further proofs of his rightful claims to All-America recognition as he shifted to tackle post and continued his outstanding ways. He thrilled the large crowd by intercepting a pass and racing 55 yards for a touchdown in the first few minutes of play—an exact repetition of his 1933 feat against the Cavaliers.

Jackson, Montgomery, and Buck also followed suit in touchdown production, while Hutchins bucked the line for the only extra pointer of the game. Captain Johnson dented the scoring column for the losers.

CAROLINA 7, N. C. STATE 7

Right in the middle of the 1934 season is found Carolina's most disappointing performance—a 7-7 tie with N. C. State. "Hunk" Anderson's Wolfpack met up with a very weakened Tar Heel squad, approximately fifteen of whose members had been stricken with dye poisoning two days before. It was this game that thwarted U. N. C.'s claim to Southern Conference supremacy.

Again it was Dashiell's passing that enabled Carolina to score. This time Shaffer was on the receiving end, taking a 14-yard toss and dashing five yards to the goal line. Daniel's placement made it 7. State tied the score shortly after the intermission when Farrar, on a reverse, went through the Carolina defense to score unmolested from the 27. Regdon's placement evened matters.

BASKETBALL

Carolina's basketball representatives for the 1934-35 season completed a most successful season by annexing the Southern Conference championship after having already taken the State title. However, the conference victory only climaxed a brilliant regular season during which the White Phantoms won 23 out of 25 games.

Before the season got under way, the Carolina team was not ranked too highly in the pre-game dope because of the loss of Virgil Weathers and Dave McCachren, two great performers. However as the season progressed the White Phantoms gathered steam, and led by Captain Aitken, Mel Nelson, and Jim McCachren they gained eleven consecutive victories before bowing to Army. During the course of this victory string such teams as Washington and Lee, V. M. I., Virginia, Maryland, Navy, Crescent A. C. of Brooklyn, and the New York A. C. were defeated. In the course of their northern trip the White Phantoms were praised highly by the Metropolitan sports writers, who were greatly impressed with the all-around play of the team.

After a short rest from the New York trip, the Tar Heel team resumed play and defeated V. P. I., North Carolina State, and Wake Forest before meeting Duke for the first time. Duke took an early lead in the game, and Carolina could not overcome this handicap. The final score was 33 to 27. Mel Nelson with 11 points, and Captain Aitken played good ball for the Tar Heels, but the team did not function as a unit. However, after this defeat, the Tar Heels completed the season with a white slate, and in a return game handed the Blue Devils a 24 to 20 setback.

Before the close of the season Carolina's White Phantoms had victories over South Carolina, Davidson, North Carolina State, and V. M. I.

The regular lineup for the Carolina team during the season consisted of Captain Stuart Aitken and Melvin Nelson, forwards. Ivan Glace, center, Jim McCachren and Paul Kaveny or Bucky Harris, guards. Mel Nelson, playing his first year on the varsity, proved to be the center of the Carolina offense by scoring 240 points during the season to lead the Tar Heels in this department. Captain Aitken was second with 168 tallies. Nelson also compiled the fine record of 70 foul shots out of 99 attempted. Jim McCachren's floor play during the season was the strong point in the Carolina defense and earned him a great deal of well-deserved praise wherever the White Phantoms played. Jason Glace, playing his last season for Carolina, was a mainstay in the attack, and Bucky Harris and Paul Kaveny played good ball at the guard posts.

During the season Carolina scored 618 points to 472 for its opponents. Of the Tar Heel points 309 were field goals and 210 free throws.

Seeded number one in the Southern Conference tournament at Raleigh, the Tar Heels defeated South Carolina, North Carolina State, and Washington and Lee on successive nights to take the title. It was the first basketball championship for Carolina since the formation of the smaller conference. South Carolina and Washington and Lee were defeated with comparative ease, but State almost upset the Tar

The record of the 1934-35 basketball team is an indication of the fine work done by G. E. "Bo" Shepard, who has turned out successful Carolina teams in this sport since he took the reins three years ago. "Bo" is recognized as one of the leading coaches in southern basketball, and has turned out some of the finest players seen in this section of the country. Followers of Carolina basketball wonder at the fine records Tar Heel teams turn in year after year when the squads appear so weak before the season opens. The answer lies in the ability of Coach Shepard to develop players and to bring them up to collegiate standards. The winning of the Southern Conference championship this year was a fine reward to the Tar Heel coach for his great work.

Heels in the semi-final game. With 90 seconds to play the two teams were deadlocked at 28 all, when Mel Nelson, stellar forward, sunk a field goal from outside the foul line to give the Carolina team the game. Every man on the team played superb ball in the tournament. Captain Aitken, Jim McCachren, and Jason Glace played fine floor games and scored many telling markers, but Melvin Nelson again proved his scoring ability by taking top honors for this division in the tournament with a total of 32 points for the three games. Captain Aitken, Glace, and McCachren were selected for posts on the all-tournament team, and Nelson was placed on the second team. Jim McCachren was later chosen for the all-southeastern team by a group of experts.

Monograms were awarded to Captain Aitken, Nelson, Glace, McCachren, Kaveny, Harris, Blood, and Webster. Of this group Aitken, Glace, and Harris will be lost to the 1935-36 team.

TRACK

Carolina's 1934 Flying Tar Heel track crew accomplished during its season what no other team has ever done—making a clean sweep of all the major track and field titles in the State and Southern Conference. The Tar Heels won the N. C. State meet and annexed both the indoor and outdoor Southern Conference titles. The team ranked as one of the best ever turned out under the Blue and White and as the best, individually.

Coach Bob Fetzer again tutored his boys through a season of fame. "Coach Bob" has won thirteen consecutive state championships, four conference outdoor titles, and three conference indoor crowns. During this period they have suffered defeat only thrice in dual competition.

The tracksters opened the outdoor play, meeting a strong Dartmouth Indian team on the home field. The New Hampshireans were down south on an early training tour and were much further developed than the Heels. But the Indians were forced to their fullest strength before subduing the Fetzermen, 66-60.

The meet was close from the first event. An accident ruined the Tar Heels' chance for a victory. In the 220 yard dash, John Gunter was leading the field with less than 10 yards to go when he pulled a leg muscle and fell. His five points would have given the Carolina squad the necessary points to win. Hubbard led the scoring by taking firsts in the 100 yard dash and broad jump.

The next week the team journeyed to William and Mary and set back the Old Dominion boys, 72½-53½. The following week Georgetown came to the Hill and was defeated in an unofficial meet, 100-16.

Virginia proved much easier than the pre-doping had pictured her. The invading Tar Heels turned back the team, who had given them a race for the indoor honors, with apparent ease, 78¾-47¾.

Returning to the home state, the next week the Heels took on Duke on the latter's premises. The Carolina win, 76¾-49½, practically decidated the winner of the state title and again placed one more victory in the win column against no defeats for Carolina in the Duke-Carolina dual track record.

Odell Childers showed his first real outburst of speed in this meet as he won both sprints. Harry Williamson shared hero honors with the dashman by taking both middle distances.

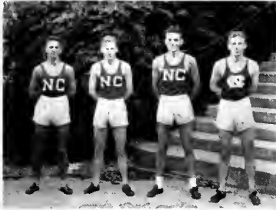

The Navy meet was the most exciting of the year. It was a notable occasion, being the first time a Naval Academy crew had ever journeyed into N. C. The meet was close throughout, the final outcome resting on the last event. Carolina emerged the winner 67-59.

With the 880 yard run left, the Tar Heels had 62 points, needing a second in the event to win. Williamson was trailing the field with less than 250 yards to go. He sprinted and broke the tape just inches ahead of the Middie to give Carolina their win. Three Navy and three University records were broken in this meet.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE CHAMPIONS

Carolina annexed its 13th straight state crown by tallying 85 points, more than the total of their opponents and 48 points more than Duke, the runner-up. Davidson followed closely behind the Devils with 33. Nine new state records were set up.

The Southern Conference meet was Carolina's from the very first. Its well balanced team scored in every event, placing 23 men and capturing seven first places. Again the Tar Heels divided the score on the next team, annexing 68 13/14 points to the runner-up's, Virginia, 34 5/14.

Tom Hawthorne led the scoring for the Blue and White, while Ed Waldrop and "Red" Drake scored surprising wins in the two mile and quarter mile runs. Neither of the latter two boys had been mentioned in the pre-doping. These "dark horses" stormed by the favorites in their respective events to win in thrilling last minute finishes.

The individual stars set up a total of 14 new records during their stampede. Co-captain Ralston LeGore set four new marks himself to lead the group. He threw the javelin 214 feet 8 7/8 inches in the Penn Relays to set a new record for that track carnival. He also chalked up new marks for the University, conference, and state. Co-captain Ed McRae set a new conference record for the indoor mile.

Five new state records were set by LeGore; Frank Abernethy in the high hurdles; Charlie Hubbard in the broad jump; Odell Childers in the 220 yard dash; and Harry Williamson in one of the greatest half miles ever seen in the South, timed at 1:54.2 minutes.

Six University records were broken by Legore, Abernethy, Hubbard, Williamson, Tom Hawthorne in the low hurdles, and "Red" Drake in the quarter mile.

Several of the team won national recognition. Besides LeGore in the Penn Relays, Harry Williamson ran a close second to Venzke of Pennsylvania in a record-breaking 1500-meter run in the District of Columbia invitational run.

Four men were selected for the eastern team to go to the National Collegiates in Los Angeles in June. LeGore placed third in the javelin while Williamson ran fourth behind Bonthron, Cunningham, and Venzke in the record-breaking mile.

In the National A. A. U. meet in Milwaukee LeGore won the javelin with a toss of 216 feet 9 inches and Williamson won the junior division of the 1500-meter run. Abernethy placed third in the junior high hurdles, and Hawthorne fourth in the junior low hurdles.

At the end of the season monograms were awarded to the following men:

F. R. LeGore, E. E. McRae, Co-Captains; F. P. Abernethy, W. F. Armfield, W. O. Childers, J. O. Drake, T. M. Ewins, T. J. Hawthorne, C. S. Hubbard, D. F. Jackson, C. A. Jensen, B. C. Keeney, D. S. BOXING

CAPTAIN GIDDENS

BOXING

Carolina's boxing team, paced by hard luck throughout the season, did not come up to the heights expected of it by the Tar Heel rooters. In the schedule of five dual meets, three were won, one lost, and one tied. Captain Sam Giddens was the only Tar Heel to win an individual championship at the conference tournament.

Carolina journeyed to V. P. I. for its first contest of the season, and returned home on the long end of a 7 to 1 score. It was the first and only time of the season that the team had its best battlers ready to fight. Joe Fisher, Jule Medynski, Sam Giddens, and Max Novich won decisions, and Marion Diehl, Tom O'Flaherty, and Herbert Alderman won their bouts by knockouts. Johnny Edwards lost a close decision to Captain Hall of the Gobblers in the flyweight division.

Winning by forfeits in the light-heavy and heavyweight classes, Carolina next defeated South Carolina by a $6\frac{1}{2}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$ score in the Tin Can. Marion Diehl, bantamweight, suffered his first loss as a college boxer to Lorenzo Taylor. Taylor earned a close decision over Diehl who tended to be too cautious because of an injured nose. Johnny Edwards drew with Dunn of South Carolina for the Gamecocks' only other score. Ernie Eutsler and Sam Giddens won on decisions, and Joe Fisher and Jule Medynski by knockouts.

With Tom O'Flaherty and Jule Medynski missing from the Tar Heel lineup due to an eligibility inquiry, Virginia's conference champions managed to nose out a victory, $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{1}{2}$. Marion Diehl started the bouts off with a clear cut victory over Hahn, the 1934 champion, who had not lost a fight in three years of college boxing. Ernie Eutsler met another of Virginia's champions, Gordon Rainey, and lost a close decision. Johnny Edwards lost to Brooks of the Cavaliers and Virginia was in the lead. Joe Fisher, succeeded in holding Maynard Womer, another champion, to a draw, but Virginia strengthened her lead when Carolina was forced to forfeit the junior middleweight bout due to Medynski's absence. Captain Sam Giddens and Max Novich came through with victories over Caplin and Noll of the Cavaliers, however, to tie the score at $3\frac{1}{2}$ points for each team. Cramer of Virginia decided Kanner in the final and deciding bout. Kanner won the first round, and held Cramer even in the second, but tired during the third, and the Virginian won the fight due to his strong finish.

Carolina returned to her winning ways in the bouts with North Carolina State. The bantamweight bout was forfeited to Carolina. Eutsler, Edwards, Fisher, and Novich won on decisions for the Tar Heels. Jule Medynski, celebrating his return to the team, scored a technical knockout in less than one minute of fighting. Herbert Alderman was held to a draw by the gigantic Johnson of the Red Terrors. Captain Giddens lost a close and unpopular decision to Fabri of the Raleigh team.

In the final dual meet of the year, Duke succeeded in holding Carolina to a draw. Jule Medynski won on a forfeit, and seven bouts were fought. Diehl won on a technical knockout over Alterman of Duke late in the third round. Ernie Eutsler lost to Fred Lloyd on a three round decision. Johnny Edwards lost the referee's decision to Kneip of the Blue Devils. The bout was very close, and the decision unpopular with some of the spectators. Joe Fisher won a clear decision over McCall. In the middleweight class, Matulewicz of Duke caught Captain Giddens with a hard right on the jaw in the first round, which floored the Tar Heel leader. Coach Rowe threw in the towel believing that Giddens could not continue, but as soon as the towel landed in the ring the Carolina captain was on his feet ready to continue. Referee Short, however, awarded the bout to Blue Devil. Max Novich left his sickbed in the infirmary to earn a clear edge over Schmidt of Duke. Kanner lost a very close decision to Granger.

Old Man Hard Luck again faced the Tar Heels in the Southern Conference tournament. Joe Fisher was eliminated in the first round when Humphlett of South Carolina accidentally butted him and so caused a cut over the Tar Heel's eye. Max Novich and Jule Medynski were both eliminated on unpopular decisions. Marion Diehl, after defeating Taylor of South Carolina in the semi-finals, lost to Hahn of Virginia in the finals. Captain Giddens won an easy decision over Lombardo of Maryland to take the championship.

At the end of the season, the Carolina team elected Ernie Eutsler, featherweight, to lead it during the 1936 season.

BASEBALL

CAPTAIN BRANDT

BASEBALL

Under the able direction of Coach Bunn Hearn, and headed by the brilliant captain and first-baseman, George Brandt, the Carolina baseball team started off to one of its most successful seasons by averaging 17 hits a game in their first five tilts. Washington and Lee, V. P. I., V. M. I., and Davidson twice were defeated by scores of 9-2, 15-4, 13-5, 6-1, and 3-1, respectively, in the course of this batting rampage. Three or four hit pitching by Crouch and McKeithan, and flawless fielding also featured these games.

Following this excellent start, the Tar Heels continued their fine playing, downing Wake Forest and Davidson again. The Wilmington professional team gave the Carolina squad its first defeat of the year in the first game of a double-header, but the University men came back strong in the second game to win 3-1 behind the brilliant five-hit hurling of Ernie McKeithan. Following these games, the winning streak of the Tar Heels was lengthened by successive wins over Guilford, Wake Forest, V. M. I., and N. C. State. In the annual two-game series with the Cavaliers of Virginia, Carolina won both games by 16-3 and 5-2 scores.

Undefeated so far in collegiate competition, the Tar Heels ventured forth on their annual northern trip, and in a series of games featured by brilliant pitching by Crouch, McKeithan, and Manley, and consistent hitting and fielding by Irwin, Brandt, Vick, Weathers, and McCaskill, the Tar Heels were victorious over V. P. I., Randolph-Macon, and Navy.

With their intercollegiate record still unblemished by defeat, Carolina returned to the home grounds for the hectic Duke series. Two out of three victories were needed to assure the Tar Heels of the state and conference championships. Behind the steady pitching of Nate Andrews who had returned to the squad in mid-season after having been out during the first half of the season due to scholastic ineligibility, Carolina won the first game 4-3. Brandt, Weathers, and Shapiro led the Tar Heel team at bat with two hits a piece. In the second game of the series which was played at night in the Greensboro Memorial stadium, the Duke batters went on a rampage against Crouch and McKeithan, and trounced the Tar Heels 15-1, and became the first college team to defeat them during the 1934 season. However, with Nate Andrews again hurling after a two-day rest, the Carolina team came back to beat the Blue Devils 7-4 in the last game of the series. N. C. State was beaten 8-4 in the final game of the year.

The final records showed the Carolina team to be victors in 19 out of 20 inter-collegiate games during the season. The team batting average for the year was the remarkably high percentage of .320. Thurman Vick led the batters with an individual average of .420. Fred Crouch was the leading hurler with ten wins out of eleven games, and Ernest McKeithan and Nate Andrews each won five games during the campaign. The Carolina team was undoubtedly the best in the south, and was hailed by some as the best in the nation. The almost impregnable infield of Brandt, Weathers, Irwin, and Leonard performed brilliantly all season, and specialized in double plays. The outfielders, Vick, Sha-

At the end of the season NC monograms were awarded to the following varsity players: J. M. Tatum, Nathan Andrews, E. H. McKeithan, G. F. Brandt, T. A. Irwin, F. A. Leonard, Thurman Vick, R. D. Barham, Ed Shapiro, J. N. McCaskill, F. P. Crouch, L. M. Manley, V. S. Weathers, H. H. Rand, E. G. McIver, J. D. Womble, H. L. Phipps, and W. W. Sloan, manager. McCaskill, Andrews, Brandt, and Weathers are the only lettermen who will not be back in the fold for the 1935 season. Thurman Vick was elected captain for 1935 by the monogram wearers.

TENNIS

CAPTAIN MORGAN

TENNIS 1934

Less fruitful than the preceding years for Carolina's tennis aggregation was the season of 1934, in which its record, unblemished since 1929, was brought to an inevitable termination by an undefeated Princeton net contingent. Carolina's defeat at the hands of Mercer Beasley's racquet-wielders concluded a string of 74 victories, an achievement unparalleled in the annals of intercollegiate tennis.

Seriously handicapped by the loss of two star sophomore performers, Hunter Lott and Bernard Friedmau, immeasurably retarded by injuries to Bob Lovill and Harley Shuford, Coach John E. Kenfield, nevertheless, developed a powerful unit of strength. He sent upon the courts a team that captured 17 of the 18 conflicts, trouncing such excellent opposition as Army, Navy, Amherst, Yale, Johns Hopkins, and Duke.

Led by Captain Dave Morgan, the 1934 squad consisted of Harvey Harris, Richard Willis, Walter Levitan, William Minor, James Johnson, Robert Lovill, Lawrence Jones, and John McGlenn.

Off to an auspicious start, the Carolina netmen shut out their first four opponents without a score. Throughout the entire season, Coach Kenfield's men triumphed in seven conflicts without the loss of so much as a single match.

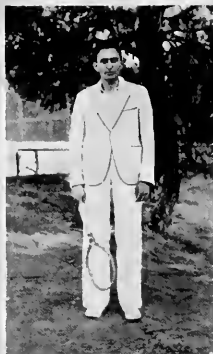

Defeated in their efforts to win the N. C. State single and doubles titles by Halverstadt of Davidson and Welch and Higgins of Duke, the Chapel Hill netmen avenged these losses by beating every major team in the state.

In line with the Southern Conference Tourney, Carolina fared sadly. As individuals, the men on the net aggregation were lacking in championship calibre, but as a team they could be halted only by the country's outstanding players. Coach Kenfield's men, however, managed to capture two titles. Walter Levitan, captain-elect for 1935, won the Middle Atlantic Inter-collegiate Championship in singles, while Harvey Harris, paired with Levitan, brought home the Greenbrier trophy, significant of doubles supremacy.

The tennis team's annual northern tour commenced successfully enough as both Navy and Johns Hopkins were met and conquered, but the success was of short endurance as the 1933 champions hit a snag in the form of Princeton. The Tar Heels bowed 9-0 before their New Jersey foes. Brushing aside the Tiger defeat, Carolina's men went on to capture their five remaining contests.

With Frank Shore and Eddie De Gray at the leading positions, the frosh tennis squad went through its entire schedule undefeated, making the outlook for a 1935 championship team quite bright.

MINOR SPORTS

CROSS COUNTRY SQUAD

CROSS COUNTRY

The 1934 Tar Heel Cross-country team turned in one of the best seasons in its ten year history, running through four dual meets without defeat, and easily annexing the Southern conference championship. Provided with the best material in several years, Coach Dale Ranson led his team to victories over North Carolina State, Washington and Lee, V. M. I., and Duke. In the course of these wins, the Tar Heel runners ran two perfect races.

Harry Williamson, captain of the team, was forced to remain idle during the entire season due to injuries. However, Ed McRae made up for this loss by winning every meet but one, and by capturing the Southern Conference individual honors. Mc-

CAPTAIN WILLIAMSON

Rae missed setting a new record for the event by but 16 seconds. Ed Waldrop, captain-elect, followed right on McRae's heels in the races. Other leaders throughout the season were: Haywood Curlee, acting-captain, Louis Conte, Graham Gammon, and Fabius Haywood.

The fine work of the team is even more clearly shown by their low scores during the season, the results of which follow:

N. C.	15	N. C. State	49
N. C.	20	Washington and Lee	36
N. C.	15	V. M. I.	48

GOLF SQUAD—1934

GOLF

Keeping pace with the other 1934 Carolina athletic teams, the varsity golf squad enjoyed a successful season, winning seven, losing but four, and tying one of the twelve matches played. On the annual northern trip, the links squad broke even, beating Navy $17\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$, losing to Richmond 14 to 4, and tying Georgetown 3 to 3. In meets played in the state, Carolina was successful in defeating Duke and Davidson twice, and splitting two meets with State. In the North Carolina State meet, however, the Tar Heels were nosed out of the championship by the State college golfers. The Carolina squad also placed third in the annual Southern conference meet which was won by Washington and Lee. Captain Er-

WRESTLING

Carolina again experienced a lean year in the field of wrestling endeavor—Coach P. H. Quinlan's charges taking only two victories in six starts. Though the season may be called anything but successful, the team did show some good spurts, and with plenty of fine material coming up from the freshman squad, better things are expected for next season.

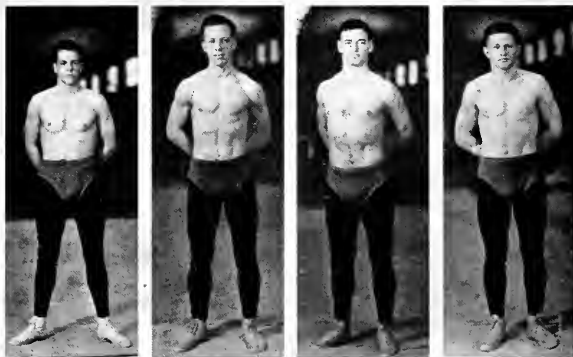

The grapplers gave a false indication of the season's expectations when they opened with a top heavy 23-9 triumph over the V. P. I. team here in the Tin Can. Umstead, Gholson, Bonner, and Ransom scored victories via the fall route. However, the U. N. C. stock received a heavy jolt when N. C. State turned the tables by an 18-6 count the following week-end at Raleigh. Umstead and Captain Efland garnered Carolina's only points on time advantages.

The Tar Heels made their first invasion into Virginia and met with a 28-0 shut out at the hands of the Washington and Lee matmen at Lexington. This match evened the score at 1-all for competition with the Cavalier state teams, but Carolina lost the rubber match when V. M. I. gave the Blue and White squad a 19-11 defeat. Umstead won by a fall and Gholsen and Bonner scored time advantage wins, to gain the only points against the Cadets, who later aspired to the title of Southern Conference champions.

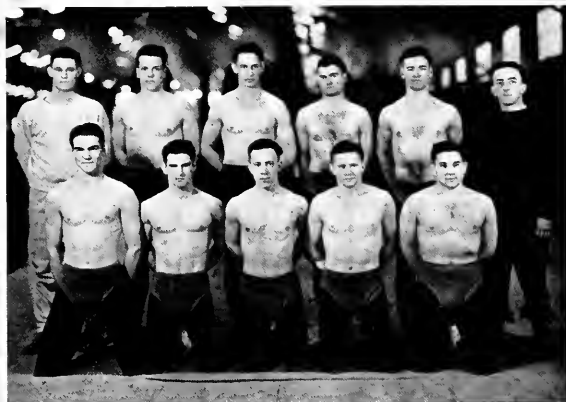

The State championship Davidson team was the guest of the Tar Heels in Chapel Hill and obliged with a 16-14 triumph in a match that was undecided until the final bout had finished. The lead saw-sawed back and forth throughout, and with Carolina holding a 14-8 margin at the completion of six bouts, Captain Fort scored a fall

The season's outstanding men were Umstead, Bonner and Ward. The former two lost but one bout each, while the latter only succumbed on two occasions. Captain Efland and Gholson were pronounced as the most improved members of the team. All of this year's squad will return excepting Efland.

The Tar Heel frosh came through four of their matches with but a single reverse, that coming at the hands of V. P. I., by a 21-15 margin. Victories were scored over State, 23-13, V. M. I., 18-14, and Duke, 21-9.

Here are the boys in their beautiful new mansion, which can be seen in the background of the group under the tree in the side yard. The house must be as comfortable as it is beautiful, as proven by the dormant figure on the sofa. It looks like Bill Johnston is either playing Moses or has lost his pants. The rest of the boys are fixing the most necessary automobile that takes them back and forth, to and from civilization.

Here are the Dekes with their monograms, twins, dice, and house-mother. Artist Harney is caught drinking a toast to his date of the Kentucky week-end. Just after the shutter was snapped, "Twinks" Pruden accidentally swallowed the pipe. Willis and Patterson, to accommodate the photographer, turned away from the Chapel Hill parade, which is continually reviewed from these grandstand seats by the whole chapter of a Sunday.

Here are intimate glimpses of Mammer's boys, wearing their characteristic "pork pies," which started and, thank heaven, ended here. Notice conscientious Hammer proof reading his paper the next day, while Rhodes doesn't seem to believe a word of it. Engineer Jordan, from the looks of the eye-brows, is caught swallowing a fly, while Parker Morris leaves for the week-end.

The informal life of the Delta Tau Delta boys seems to include everything from tight-rope walking to shot-gun weddings. Notice the reckless abandon with which Madame Fifi performs above the watery depths. Here, too, is shown the curiosity some of the boys have about one thing and another. The sleeping beauty may be the remains of the tree-climber, or possibly the victim on the front steps. Anyway, it is very interesting.

The K. A.'s at play, showing eight fascinating glimpses into modern fraternity life. Here we find Sir Malcolm Campbell standing proudly beside his Blue bird, Ed Everett holding tightly to a supporting column, and "Blondie" Broadhurst keeping Dr. Skinner away by the proverbial apple method. Most interesting of all is the Cameron Court freak, Mr. McFadden, the wonder boy, who has five hands and three legs.

That thing is Barrie Blackwelder looking down, believe it or not. The glittering shelf must be a glimpse into Jack May's room. That's not Booty, but Bro. Merritt standing in the doorway. The cameraman went hog-wild with the angle-shot idea, but a few of the boys can be seen looking out into the court.

These characteristic poses show the Lambda Chi Alpha's at play. The stooping freshmen prove the way in which these clever Lambda Chi's go about doing things, which might be called "Multiple Fan-tan." Note the cherubic expressions of the lads looking down-stairs from up-stairs, or vice-versa. Here, too, we find the weird Lambda Chi Alpha mystery, "Blood on the Steps."

Here are the Fire Alpha's at their phi side. It looks like Sam is going to let go his right to settle the dispute as to who's going to hold the loving-cup. Duck, brother, duck! The handsome pair in the garden are Sam and Eddie, the popular Phi Alpha boosters. Morticianer Steinreich seems to be either serving as the fraternity barber, or else playing hell with somebody's liver.

From all appearances, the Phi Deltis do much more than study up at their mansion on the hill. Math-instructor Torrian, judging by his diminutive friend, seems to have grown by geometrical progression. It looks like it would be a merry trio if Bill Scott hadn't forgotten his barytone. From the looks of the much-sought-after lad on the lawn, it seems there was one girl too many up for the week-end.

Here are the goings-on inside of the Fiji Hut on Cameron Avenue. African Golf seems to be the pre-dominating indoor sport, though all-American George seems to be enjoying his privilege to punish where it will do the most good. Notice the pockets being filled in the group around the jewelry salesman. Clever boys, these Phi Gams . . . even June Bateman looks innocent.

Never a dull moment in the Phi Kap house, for if it's not one thing it's another. Here we find the boys upstairs, downstairs, on the porch, playing bridge, and even studying, possibly. These lads are to be commended on their taste in room decoration, as well as celebrating. The boys in the "back room" seem to be proving that there's no rest for the weary. The fatigued member doesn't seem to mind, anyway.

These photographs tend to show the predominating characteristic of the Pika's to be a retiring nature, with little preference as to when, where, or how many. The middle monkey seems to be the happiest of the three, which can possibly be explained by Brother Gabriel in front of the radio. It looks as if brother Chears is not bothered by reading-over-the-shoulder nervousness.

These few scenes show what a social bunch this crowd is. The bus scene and sign are from the memorable goodwill tour that lads took to Georgia. According to the photos, the Sigma Chi's are decided sun-lovers. Quite some interest is taken by one group on the porch in the life of the historic character, Paul Jones, whose life seems to be almost over. From the expressions of the trio on the steps, it is safe to bet that she is Litten's date, and that Blanton is doing a perfect job of "muscling in."

These too few snapshots are hardly worthy as representative of the Sigma Delta's, but they do show a little of the variety of these lads' activities. An insight into the private lives of the University of North Carolina snakes . . . a very, very interesting species, indeed. The indoor picture shows Engineer Old mystifying the boys with four aces, while all the lads carefully watch his sleeves. The posed group are the winners of the Fraternity Intramural Tag Football competition. The Shirt-sleeve Barrymore is Dave Lynch, the Maryland machine, who seems to be caught with his morning corn flakes, which isn't unusual except the flakes.

Here's how the S. P. E.'s carry on. In the tree is the evasive freshman, employing Tarzan methods to escape punishment. There he is again on the roof-top, still a fugitive from justice. Olsen's Durfee is seen as the server in a ping pong match, and again in a more pensive mood, in front of the Tar Heel's Hargett, who doesn't appear to take all this as seriously.

Here are the autocrats of Rose Mary lane. Ellisberg, Ostrow, and Zaglin, proudly puff chests to show their versatility. Pearson seems to be slipping a few off the bottom to advantage, while Ostrow and others frown with misgiving. From the looks of Mrs. Cook's arm, it is safe to bet that the ice-box is seldom raided.

Here we find Harold Bennett and his boys in natural life poses, showing their sporting interests of cards and horses. The derbied dandies are McGuire and Hill, famous song and dance team and men-about-town. The two candid cameramen, Larsen and Grimes, are beat at their own game by our photographer, who was quicker on the draw.

As shown by the snapshots, pipe-smoking seems to be the outstanding outdoor sport. However, we find the boys caught by the cameraman after a close intramural basketball game. The question, is the painter a track star, or is the track star just painting? That's a hot one. The beauty of the porch is certainly enhanced by Hilliard Wilson and

Here are the Zete's in characteristic poses, swapping yarns and watching the inimitable "Baldy" Anderson put on an act. "Wolf" Schulz, in one of the groups, seems to have gotten a rise out of the crowd with an age-old bit of Dartmouth humor. Notice the serious expressions of the three Zeta Psi giants, Lewis, Pitt, and Tabb, on their way to Bingham Hall. Evin's grin must have been caused by either a letter from South Carolina or a joke he heard two weeks ago.

ADVERTISEMENTS

"I want my Buccaneer back," wailed disgraced ex-editor Gaskins, fresh from a campaign of rounding up influential students to plead before the council.

"I want my trunk," howled a wispy little freshman who looked like a first cousin to last year's gent from Eurine, N. C.

"I want Frank Graham to keep his hands off the strike," roared the alumni mill-owners.

"I want to get orientated," muttered Jack Poole, staggered by a freshman who told him the honor system was the bunk.

"I want to play Hamlet, if they'll draft me," purred Freddie-Freddie as he began to make out Playmakers' grades for the year.

The madness of the first three days cooled into anxious speculation over Coach Snavely's chances of whipping up a successful team. Newly-arrived co-eds had a great time mistaking Hutchins for Barclay and sighed when told that dashing Shaffer was still pledged to an alumna. President Weathers shivered when "Czar" VanHecke threatened to disbar him if he didn't make "B" grades. Frank Wilson and the rest of the freshman law class grumbled over keeping notebook for the dean, and June Bateman got an early shot in at Harry's grill by consuming enough beer to make him look like the Graf Zeppelin. Optimists hailed a new era as Mayne, Albright and five colleagues moved into Everett to turn into a model dormitory. Second night of the experiment a trusted adviser gave up trying to solve a freshman math problem.

President Bennett, who administered to the Sigma Chi's their third defeat in quest of the head-job on the Interfraternity Council, announced that "gentlemanly rushing would prevail." The general scramble was as undistinguished as possible, with fierce competition developing only over a couple of all-state-somethings. Phi Deltas grabbed off Ramsay Potts while the Kappa Sigis were straining to keep "Boody" Lewis from tearing up Cameron Court in honor of the new pledges.

Campus respectively thrilled and awed by the initial football victory over Wake Forest, in which Dick Dashiell came out of nowhere to be the bright particular star and the performance of Green Pastures which a female citizen of the town objected to on the grounds it would breed race hatred. Editor Gaskins suppressed his desires to castigate everyone responsible for his disgrace in his first issue in an effort to burlesque Esquire, while Editor Sugarman bade farewell to the hokkus and sketches of the old Carolina Magazine, promising articles or something that wouldn't be earmarked "literary." Down onto Cobb Terrace moved Zeta Psi's McKay, Pitt, and Harrison there to give some of the best parties of the year, there to freeze to death trudging to the Zete house for breakfasts before 8:30.

Freddie-Freddie's first effort was R.U.R. which did little more than make a hell of a noise and reveal Phil Parker and Ellen Deppe as the finds of the season. Old Easter Ellis sparkled with indignation when the faculty put his Student-Faculty Day off until February 20 but yelped joyfully with the rest of the mad Carolinians when Barclay's men walloped Georgia 14-0. Dill, Hammer, and Ivey collaborated on a daily wise-cracking diet, originally titled "Paragraphics." Hammer won out with "Twinkle, twinkle, little Saar." Their observations didn't cover Sophomore Wheat's daily parade around Dr. Cameron's class, the development of the breathless Tait-Dix-Blanton courtship, the arrival of The New Masses on the shelves of Dean Carroll's commerce library, nor Dopey Johnson's repeated pronouncements that civilization was cracking up when people didn't buy fine books like Ike Hoover's memoirs.

Selby Harney wept when the S.A.E. carnival idea busted his bust of Mae West from first honors in the second Homecoming Day decoration contest. Dormitories bluntly announced they wouldn't compete and took consolation in the Georgia Tech victory, second major triumph since 1929. Negro singers had a field day during the celebration picking up anywhere from 50c to $2.00 for crooning in the fraternity tea-rooms. The day also marked one of the last appearances of "cawn" on the campus—an Aycock freshman disgustedly handed his half-gallon to the dormitory blackmoor and went forth in search of Key-stone or Crab Orchard.

The Red Scare arrived in November when Freshman Levitt innocently enough organized an anti-war conference which found itself condemned by the Phi Assembly for paying students to attend with Moscow gold. Plunk! Plunk! Follow-up was the attempted condemnation of the Red Cross by the group which made conservative Lee Greer, head of the drive, just wild. Only other class-struggle note was Vann Webb's perennial fracas with the commerce school.

Too late did City Manager Foushee attempt to break the football betting racket which threatened to display dominoes as the favorite campus diversion. Equally late were the freshman elections in which "Pete" Mullis, who looks like another "Snooks" Aitken proved that a basketball can beat a footballer in the fall quarter. Alabama and Delta Psi's Nick Read surprised himself by getting 85 votes as an independent candidate. Rameses III suffered from temporary indigestion. Jack Pool and Lonnie Dill swore they'd attend no committee meetings for one whole day, and Urban Tigner Holmes boomed joyfully over additions to his Renaissance jewel collection, while Mayne Albright was finding out that playing "big brother" wasn't quite enough.

Ex-editor Andrews threw five torts into the waste-basket in exultation over his book receiving top All-American rating, while Claude Rankin threatened to murder the editor of the Magazine if he didn't stop trying to loot the P. U. Board Treasury. The full story of the S.A.E. jaunt to Athens finally came out with "Polhead" Yson brandishing of milk bottles in the Chi Phi house, screaming, "This always makes 'em mad" as the number one item. Runner-up was the disappearance of Mr. Pool from the fun-loving group. Stetson "D" glowered across the street as they watched Tycoons Weeks and Barnes make off with enough of their business to warrant too frequent sales, and the Gaskins-Lee duo thrived on inquiring looks at 10:30.

Freddie-Freddie ignored the November cold to think of warm May which would bring Hamlet. Again radios blared forth in Spencer Hall to cause Mrs. Stack to demand their removal while E. E. Ericson was telling popeyed sophomores that The New Deal was not so hot after all. Hell broke loose in the Phi Assembly when Speaker Smithwick, uncertain of parliamentary procedure, cut the Gordian knot by fining the entire membership for disrespectful attitude toward the speaker. The Di snorted and went on to condemn "the handle without a cup" or something like that for not being a little more obscene. The sophomore hop brought little credit to anyone except the drunk who went around babbling chimes as he confided that he felt like the bell-tower. And who was the gent who was found asleep at 3 a.m. on the varsity courts in tuxedo. And who, too, were the gents who agree with Watts Ashley that Roger Ginsberg and automobiles is a suicidal combination?

Came the Duke game with no repetition of 1933's Ram Hoax, plenty of todding in anticipation of another tie, and positive delirium when Buck outdid himself to give Carolina a 7-0 win. Harlowesque Beacham, engineer Huber attending, swam into view as the ace gossip-in-print and Dougald MacMillan, full of new British wisecracks, passed through for a look at the provincials before going out to die for research in California.

Johnny Booker delivered the longest introduction of the year, reviewing most of English 79, before giving Irishman James Stephens a chance. Slumbered in R. B. House's breast the desire to prohibit frosh from rooming in the fraternity houses and leapt heresy from A. W. Hobbs when he mumbled that maybe extra-curricular activities weren't so important. Campus leaders Bahnsen and Pool, countered by opining that then they had wasted four pretty good years. The all-publications tod-party headed toward the Sigma Delta house 4 a. m. there to have its last half-pint swiped in the middle of a vicious inter-city-editor ping-pong match in the dark. Don Pope and Tom Hawthorne alike were thrilled with violinist Zimbalist's performance, but neither could figure out whatinhell Paul Green was getting at in Shroud My Body Down. Fowler Spencer (Helen Kane with a Southern accent), couldn't even find out the meaning of the play from the stage-hands, but Freddie-Freddie tactfully told his audience that a fifteen year old boy had a perfect interpretation.

Just as he was remembering that Isham Jones had been pretty fair at fall Germans, hurdler Abernethy dug in and prepared for that accounting final while the boys up in Saunders under Wodehouse were busy cutting paper dolls from The News and Observer to pass contemporary politics. Messrs. Higby and Entslar polished up their slide rules, while Student Councilman Patterson wondered painfully about the esophagus as described by Dr. Charlie E. Carrington Smith fooled the oldsters but failing to run all four-star pictures during exams, but that didn't deter George Taylor from slicing away half of his "two-hour quiz" so that it took only four hours. And did the Northerners sizzle when railroad fare climbed from $13.85 to $21.95.

Washington's Shoreham Hotel and cocktail lounge yielded without struggle to the Turkey Holiday onslaught of over forty Carolinians. High moment of the evening came when Director Barnes persuaded the orchestra to play "Hark the Sound." At the first peal some capital mug sang out, "High above Cayuga's waters" but was pronto drowned out by Cooner, Broadhurst, and Jackson. Most perilous incident was the eviction of a leading politician. Mumbling about the "magnaphone" he had used to cheer Carolina to victory, he broke loose in the lounge only to be collared by a bouncer. Pleaded Editor Dranc, "Throw him out the front way. If you pitch through that back door, we'll never find him." And with perfect Continental dispatch the tuxedoed bouncer landed the politician on the sidewalk beside an ambassadorial-looking party.

As the last, over-played record of Love in Bloom was being

HE WOULDN'T
shirt off his back!

It's a HANES . . . as cool and comfortable an undershirt as you ever tucked inside your shorts! And when you get it tucked—it stays. There's so much length to a HANES shirt-tail that it can't come out of place . . . can't make an annoying wad at your waist!

Take a peep at your chest. See how the soft, elastic fabric smooths and snugs around your ribs. HANES does a sweet job of knitting! Because no matter how much you wash the shirt, it'll always fit as clean and trim as that . . . never any droops or wrinkles!

These shirts should be enough guarantee that HANES Shorts are okay, too. You'll know they are, if you climb into a pair! You can stretch and reach all over the lot—nothing catches or binds. And the colors stay put—or we'll make good! See a HANES dealer today. P. H. Hanes Knitting Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

smashed over Nick Powell's head his fellow Yankees in Lewis dorm were entering into spirited competition with juvenile Crosby. Wagered the crooner the collegians a ping-pong table that Stanford would trim Alabama. Sent the crooner the collegians a ping-pong table adorned with a metal plate recording his defeat. Marched the Mangum dwellers over to Lewis to play on the table. Resulted a general free-for-all with Mangum in retreat. Moot question: Were the collegians sports enough anyway to write Woodbury's to raise Bing's starveling wages?

Cornelia Philip Spencer wedding bells rang in the new year as Dill's irreverent Tar Heel reported that publicity-hound Madry had been hooked at last and that Dean House and Frank Graham were smiling happily when Nancy Herndon, once their joint secretary, became Mrs. Self-Help Lanier.

"Horrors," screamed Nan Norman when a Spencer Hall kitty shoved under her nose the god-awful Finjan with what was left of a likeness of her on the cover. Artist Ruark scrambled out to Carboro and phoned Nan that it was all the dirty engraver's fault. Giddy "Pat" Dix simpered and pouted enough to get a show out of Bill Moore while Dave Spiers chalked up his 59th consecutive date with comprehensive-plagued Neville North and the Shack's dusky Charlotte opined that gals were funny, but honeys anyhow. She trembled a bit as Social Conditions Investigators Hammer, Fairley, and Winslow marched to the second floor for a thorough survey of the female domestic situation.

Connie Burwell bit another piece from Horace Williams' Modern Logic and cheered along with everyone else when Barclay returned from the coast gilded with All-American and all-everything honors. Favoring his knee, the Pennsylvanian helped business for the co-op by letting it exhibit his treasure-chest and wardrobe. Freddie-Freddie explained his doleful countenance by admitting that F. D. R. hadn't been interested in a simultaneous reading of Dickens' Christmas Carol and a recital of "how I discovered Paul Green."

Magazine article on R. O. T. C. at State College didn't make the Raleigh boys as mad as Haywood Weeks was when his business rivals nearly landed him in jail on a legal technicality. Nor was he as furious as Phi Mu Alpha when potential ticket-buyers were warned that their pianist, Dalies Frantz, was much more of a man than Ted Shawn. Phoebe Barr's boys tripped all the harder over at Memorial hall while Fisher and Medynski prepared for an exciting boxing season. Post-card from Philips Russell thanked the Anti-War Conference for sending him to Brussels, promised to bring back the low-down on Communism. Barnes and Sugarman wondered whether he was having as frantic a time as they had had under the spell of Huey Long in Boston at N. S. F. A.

Annual high for boloney-bibbing reached by the ballyhoo on the Yackety-(Now) Fin-Tar-Mag fracas. Yacketys won again, but City Editor Suss duplicated his report of last year: The victors played dirty. Melvin Nelson proved a worthy mate for basketball stars MacCachren and Aitken, but Weathers certainly looked blue on the sidelines. Three people dropped in for a wrestling match a few more went over to see whether the Greyhound Bus Lines were ever going to appear before the hearing to get the machine to run thru Chapel Hill. Nelson Lansdale's "Casual Correspondent" sounded more and more The New Yorker every issue, but Jimmy Rogers didn't care as long as Joyce Sayre could control her roving eyes—and Bill Moore said that went double for Spece Coppedge, Nashville (NC) contribution to Chapel Hill's natural beauty. Dr. Berryhill tried to pooh-pooh the notion of a flu epidemic but when the business office had its staff down to two people he sealed the infirmary tighter than a K. A. on a week-end.

"Pork-pie hatter" Nick Read gasped at the commotion caused by his proposal for a freshman honor court. President Weathers scurried back from a date at Greensboro to object; Dean Bradshaw stopped in the middle of a prolix illustration to wonder; and Phil Hammer bawled, "They won't know what's what till we get our written constitution" at which lanky Abernethy shuddered. Frosh finally consented not to toss anybody out of school and were shoved off the front page by the O'Flaherty-Medynski-Virginia-Rowe affair which brought rumblings of a break with the Cavaliers. Blonde Beacham, squired by over-worked Managing editor Page since the A. T. O. dance, pouted when Carolina dropped the fights to Virginia by one bout. Zeta Psis barked that it was the damndest machine Bob Drane had ever seen for the town of Chapel Hill to require auto tags and Nihat Ferit continued to smirk at American girls in favor of Fatimas.

Spencer Hall set the pages of history back half a century and gave a card dance for the male campus leaders at which the escorts wearied of the cramped serving conditions and stormed the tiny kitchen for food there to find Mrs. Lee dispensing it breathlessly as she beamed at the compliments. That didn't stop the Pi Phi's from walloping the Chi O's in basketball as usual nor did it prevent a miscellaneous group of liberals from holding a mass meeting, despite Editor Dill's condemnation, on behalf of the Burlington strikers.

Mortification covered William Howard Wang when his aesthetic burning of candles to the memory of John Keats was exposed, but he comforted himself by nodding throughout a whole period of visiting Hardin Craig's lecture. Highbrow and lowbrow joined Wang in Gerrard Hall to listen to Gertrude Stein babble for an hour and a half to the complete disgust and mystification of Richmond Bond, Dean Van Hecke, Jim Tatum, and Sophomore (now) Wheat. Gertie reached new heights when she asked whether somebody didn't want to know what she meant by "a rose is etc." The firm of Weesner & Daniels, abetted by party-throwing "Mike" Erlanger, stoutly maintained she was charming but Carl Jeffers dashed off for another date with Fowler Spencer, possibly surrounded by all those men "ready to marry her", as she modestly proclaimed. No one was surprised when Meno Spann's bull-fighting prowess was discovered, but there were plenty of eyebrows raised over that French bike dangerously pedalled over the campus by hooting, gurgling, Bahnson whose cousin Fred scared Dr. MacKinney when he came into class with the re-

IN 1894 — THE GOVERNOR OF NORTH CAROLINA SAID TO THE GOVERNOR OF SOUTH CAROLINA . . .

. . . Chatham Homespun

FOR once the Governors of both Carolinas agreed — on this rugged fabric loomed by three generations of Carolina weavers in the Blue Ridge :

Raleigh, N. C. 1894

"WE take pleasure in stating that we know Messrs. Chatham Manufacturing Co., Proprietors of the Elkin Woolen Mills, to be thoroughly reliable business gentlemen and we wish their goods, which have such a wide and favorable reputation, could be worn by all our Southern people."

ELIAS CARR

Governor of North Carolina.

TODAY "all our Southern people" can wear Chatham Homespun suits. Modern high-speed looms and the tailoring genius of L. Greif & Bro., Baltimore, combine to give you the best wearing suit that can be made — at a price you will pay with a smile !

YOU'LL find Chatham Homespun suits on every southern campus in many weaves and colors. "Bi-Swing" and "Shirred Back" for sport, and single and double-breasted models for every-day wear — and wear — and wear.

mains of a bearskin on his back.

Empty seats in Memorial hall inaugurated Student-Faculty Day but by the time it was noised around that synthetic lemonade was being served in the chemistry department the affair was declared a success, even by "Froggy" Wilson and Horace Williams. Freddie trotted out his best press notices but couldn't compete with the ace buildings' department and English exhibits. Barney Keeney spent the day studying to become President of Phi Beta Kappa and Winthrop Duffee had a great time reading the works of Herbert Hoover for a debate on socialized medicine.

Mid-winters brought Kay Kyser back for a trio of triumphal and pleasingly sentimental dances, punctuated by simultaneous Golden Fleece and "Gilded Fuzz" luncheons at the Inn, the latter presided over by champagne-distributor Vass Shepherd, the former deeply stirred by Kay's tribute to Carolina. Mos. impressive moment at dance was Kyser's softly sweet "Hark the Sound". Sentiment yielded to roistering that night in which Parker Morris cruised for hours, lights flared at 5:30 in the Phi Gam House, and a lawyer phoned a Reading, Pa., radio station to request the Alma Mater and was satisfied when they played one of Hal Kemp's pieces.

Gus McIver stormed when he learned that under newly-arrived Haydon, Music Appreciation was no longer a "crip", and newly-arrived Ruark caused half his department to have nervous breakdowns. All that hardly affected the founding of a Political Union which had a devil of a time finding something to do with itself after its first meeting. Worst taste of the year exhibited by pipe-pulling Carl Thompson when he used the Finjan to attack his former rival for the editorship of the 'Tar Heel with a stupid, silly business about censoring Gertie. Next worst breach of taste: Editor Gaskins' publishing the mess.

Conclusion of the winter quarter terminated Bernard Solomon's strangle hold on the comic magazine, for, disgusted by the reception of Tom Collins' Column, he dashed off to Wilmington.

DURHAM, N. C.

Also marked the passing of perennial class shine, Vermont Connecticut Roster. Sill left Freddie-Freddie, Wang, and Lewis Puckett.

Human Relations Institute gobbled up everyone for the first of the spring quarter. Hit of the week of jawing over the world's problems was fabricator Fish whose 6,000,000 starving Russians are still worrying Arnold Williams. Campus bobbed from right to left as it listened to Norman Thomas, Donald Comer, and George Soule, whose first lecture goes into the books as the dulllest of the week, whose last was the most inspiring. Snickers greeted Dean Carroll's closing admonition to the students that they shouldn't be affected by the propaganda they had heard. Hard-worked Chairman Poe looked goggle-eyed when Dr. Odum told him Governor Ehringhaus was being bombarded with telegrams grouching about radicalism in the Institute, while Secretary Comer was telling Jim Wishart why the committee didn't want a Communist speaker. Coach Bob's boys, still fresh from a conference title perambulated from seminar to seminar and joined the campus in pronouncing the Institute one of Carolina's really great events. And wasn't Sophomore (now) Wheat in Oriental Heaven when he jabbered in Chinese with quiet Minister Szee!

Vass Shepherd started the political season off right by writing a new ode, this one inscribed to Mr. and Mrs. Fanny Bradshaw. Ward-healers Ellis and Ashley began to line up their votes while Pete Mullis walked off with honors for giving the first civilized freshman dance in years. Director Barnes, back from a jaunt to Florida, lent his voice to general acclaim of Coach Bob's tracksters, while Parker Morris discovered conclusively that you can't go around a corner at 50.

Freddie - Freddie's drama festival marred only by the intrusion of some fine class-struggle propagandist puppets whom Freddie-Freddie was quick to disown, once he learned that they were "folk" in another sense. Baseball team failed to equal last year's and went along dropping games almost as fast as the blind peanut-seller got rid of his wares.

Candidate Pool's success never seriously threatened by Independents Aitken and Fairley, and in a listless, but worried campaign the University Party made another clean sweep. Marked by their absence: fryng eggs, Ben Proctor, speeches, mud-slinging. Present: E. J. Woodhouse at the University Party rally promising to be there forty years hence. Absent-Present: The administration which still doesn't know what to make of politics. Closing irony to Herb Taylor's three-year chairmanship was revelation of his having bucked frame-up in law school elections. Denials fruitless.

Tinjun tried again and this time rang the bell with a burlesque of Time showing half-naked Skimmers, J. D. Winslow as "second-most bore", and more on that mysterious co-ed Eloise Booth whom three S. P. E.'s swear they have dated since January. Bad taste of Mr. Thompson continued when he elaborated his attack on Editor Dill and took a short shot at Editor Sugarman. April, unquestionably the rainiest month of the year, set the spring back a bit but did wonders for the tod-parties. Bicycling craze begun in the fall continued with Jean Cantrell in the lead while Sybille Berwanger, still munching carrots, wouldn't cease looking for verbal encounters with "intelligent" males. General roar of pain when the advisory board, Editor Dill objecting, passed resolution for 8 o'clock classes. Mrs. Nick Adams wailed about getting the kiddies off, and Don Becker plotted to start work at 10 o'clock.

Newspaperman Page and blonde Beacham chaperoned by two Tar-Heelers may for all that is known still be locked up in the business office of the Tar Heel with "ex-No. 1" Huber vainly waiting outside for Hazel. Ambitious Sophomores and defeated candidates for the presidencies of lodges got a jolt when Harold Bennett finally got the council to agree that only presidents of chapters shall sit on that inactive body. Even Dean Bradshaw expressed hope for results, but Pool was off on his last deputiation trip to Dumm.

May Frolics surprised themselves by being held in May for the first time in a generation. Bruce Old and Charlie Shaffer still busy the night before the dance convincing Frolickers that the unknown Irving Aaronson was a big band. Ex-president Abernethy, first vice-president to succeed president (Weathers spent spring quarter making blankets), moaned when he went to bed at 10 o'clock Friday night. Zeta Psi's mixed another, thought of the ten parties to be jammed into Saturday, and chorused in a body, "Beats me".

OUR FIRST ANNUAL

THIS, the 1935 issue of the University of North Carolina Yearbook, Yackety Yack, represents the Pictorial Engraving Company's first effort in the production of a finer College Annual.

However, for more than ten years the personnel of our present organization has specialized as designers and engravers of exceptionally fine college annuals—for instance, seven issues of this publication included the 1934 All-American Yackety Yack.

As evidence of confidence in the ability and integrity of the members of this organization, the University of North Carolina Publications Union Board selected our firm to design the 1935 Yackety Yack (the largest yearbook in the Carolinas) and also awarded us the engraving contract within ten days after organization of our Company.

That we have justified such confidence is indicated by the fact that the Publications Union Board has awarded us the 1936 Yackety Yack engraving contract.

This book represents the manner in which themes by editors may be interpreted and carried out by our efficient organization.
